AWAIT REPORT BY ROOSEVELT ON WAR TALKS

Congress Is Curious About Promises.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—In the shadow of the 1944 Presidential election and President Roosevelt's candidacy for a fourth term, the 78th congress will reassemble tomorrow for its second session. It promises to be a storm center of controversy revolving around the conduct of the war, post-war peace plans, and domestic questions, many of which will be issues in the most important national election in decades.

Interest at the moment is concentrated upon the message in which the President will make his annual report to congress on the state of the Union. Tho indisposed with a cold for the last week, Mr. Roosevelt has worked on the message, but whether he will deliver it in person or transmit it in writing will be decided Tuesday in the light of medical advice.

The message is looked to for the first comprehensive statement of the political results of the President's conferences with Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, Premier Stalin of soviet Russia, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China at Cairo and Teheran. Mr. Roosevelt said when he returned that he would present his report partly in his Christmas eve address and partly in his message to congress.

Curious About Commitments.

What congress wants to know particularly is what commitments, if any, the President made at these conferences. Still a secret is what, if anything, was done about Stalin's plans to annex the eastern half of Poland, the Baltic republics, and slices of Finland and Rumania. Mr. Churchill and particularly Mr. Roosevelt are known to disapprove strongly the Stalin program, which runs counter to the Atlantic Charter, accepted by Stalin himself.

Whether Stalin gave Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill assurances that he would respect the independence of these countries or told them, in effect, as his official organ, Pravda, told Wendell Willkie, that it is none of their business, is a question that the President may or may not choose to illuminate. From some internationalist quarters of importance has come, within the last few days, the significant opinion that, while the United States would not intervene with force to protect the Poles from Russia, Stalin's annexation program, if carried out, would dampen American ardor for post-war international coöperation.

Unusual interest attaches to what the President will have to say regarding the recent strikes and threats of strikes culminating in his seizure of the railroads. These strikes and threats, he believes, have convinced the Germans that America is weakening and have probably prolonged the war for at least six months at a cost of hun-

Lith President Dies After Fire in Son's Home

Cleveland, O., Jan. 9 [Special].—Antanas Smetona, 69 years old, president of Lithuania when Russia overran and annexed that Baltic republic in 1940, died of suffocation here today after a fire which destroyed his son's home where he had been living.

Antanas Smetona.

His death ended hopes that he might return to a restored Lithuania after the war to serve out the seven year term as president to which he was elected in 1938. He was the architect of Lithuania's independence, for which he led agitation prior to World War I., and which he proclaimed as head of the Lithuanian state council in 1918. He was that country's first president in 1919, and the term to which he was last elected was his fourth.

Working on Speech.

Smetona and his wife, Sofie, 58, who fled into exile with him ahead of the Russian invasion, were at work on a speech for the fourth war loan drive when fire broke out in the home from an overheated furnace. Others in the house were Smetona's son, Julius, 30; his daughter-in-law, Burita, 31; two grandchildren, Anthony, 4, and Joseph, 3, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lindquist, who occupied a separate apartment.

All except Smetona escaped without injury from the burning building. The wife of the Lithuanian president said she smelled smoke and urged her husband to follow her downstairs. He started to do so, she said, but turned back to get a coat for protection.

Firemen found him on the floor of his apartment with a fur coat wrapped around his head. He was still breathing, but despite artificial respiration died several hours later in a hospital.

In Cleveland Since '42.

The Smetonas had lived quietly here with their son and his family since 1942. Altho still legally head of the only Lithuanian government recognized by the United States, he maintained the status of a private citizen and did not establish a government in exile.

Smetona never gave up hope that Lithuanian independence would be reëstablished, and in speeches before Lithuanian groups described both Russia and Germany as enemies of his country.

During his long public career in Lithuania, Smetona was a political foe of soviet Russia. When a Socialist government in 1926 veered toward close relations with Moscow, he led a putsch with the aid of the army which unseated the Socialist regime. Named president after this coup, he ruled without parliament for several years as a virtual dictator.

Lived Here for While.

When the Russians invaded the Baltic states in June, 1940, Smetona and his wife escaped to Germany. Later they secured a visa to the United States and came here via South America in March, 1941. For several months the Smetonas made their home in Chicago before moving to Cleveland.

Smetona was the son of a Lithuanian peasant. He studied law in St. Petersburg and after getting into trouble with school authorities for advocating Lithuanian independence he returned to Lithuania and started a newspaper in Vilna in 1905. During the next decade the independence movement crystalized around newspapers which he edited.

CONSUL PRAISES SMETONA.

Peter Dauzvardis, Lithuanian consul in Chicago, last night praised Smetona as a scholar, statesman, and patriot. "His entire life was devoted to the freedom and welfare of the Lithuanian nation," said Dauzvardis.

CHICAGO LEFT ALONE FOR BID ON CONVENTION

Committees Start Sessions Today.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

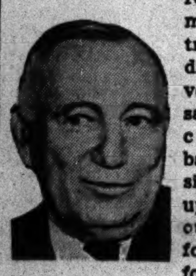
Harrison E. Spangler, Republican national chairman, said yesterday reports of sentiment among troops abroad indicate "they will vote about the same as people in civil life." He based this conclusion, he said, upon casual inquiries made by four officers in four scattered battalions in England, which showed opinion was favoring the Republican party, and not the New Deal as some Democrats have claimed in congress.



H. E. Spangler.

Spangler said the sampling of sentiment was made at his request by captains and lieutenants, whom he knew, and who in private life had been in the Republican organization.

56% Republican, 44% New Deal.

"I don't think the soldier vote is more Democratic than Republican," said Spangler at a press conference. "Surveys made, some in England—casual inquiries as to whether the men favored the New Deal or the Republicans—lead us to the conclusion that the percentages run about the same as in this country. The latest polls taken here at home indicate 56 per cent for the Republicans and 44 for the New Deal at present."

Spangler later said by the word "survey" he did not mean an actual poll, but simply a report he had asked from four old friends on "what they believe to be the political attitude of the soldiers in Great Britain." He said this was his duty and "I assume the New Deal is doing likewise."

How Troop Survey Was Made.

When questioned as to the mechanics of the sampling of opinion among overseas troops, the G. O. P. chairman said he had requested some officers he knew—National Guards—to get a line on sentiment, in a casual way in the course of their regular activity."

"It was perfectly within their rights as American citizens to make inquiries," he said, "They were not engaging in any political activities, but were trying to learn sentiment accurately. We get lots of letters from soldiers at the front telling us the trend of thought."

Chicago Leads for Convention.

Indications are that the Republican national convention will be held in Chicago the latter part of June, Spangler said. This is the usual time, and it fits into the railroad and hotel situation best. Chicago is without a contender for the convention. The bid of $75,000 to hold it here will be presented at tomorrow's meeting of the national committee, which will set the time and place for the national nominating meet.

At a meeting of national committeemen and state chairmen today in the Stevens hotel, Spangler will make his address. Rep. Charles W. Halleck of Indiana, new chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, will speak at a dinner tonight in the Stevens.

Green Tells of Confidence.

Speaking at a dinner for Republican national committeemen and committeewomen and state chairmen and state chairwomen in the Stevens hotel last night, Gov. Dwight H. Green expressed confidence in a Republican victory this year.

"We are going forward in 1944 and will elect the Republican ticket because the Republican party is the only agency thru which the American people can speak to preserve the American form of government," he said.

The dinner, at which Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois Republican na-

Charges New Ship Had Split in Hull Plate

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 9 (AP).—The Liberty ship Chief Washakie was "launched with a crack in her hull that had been daubed full of red lead and putty and covered over with paint," Rep. Warren G. Magnuson [D., Wash.] said tonight.

The Chief Washakie arrived in Seattle last week from Alaska and the congressman then disclosed that it had broken open on the voyage and had split twice more after being repaired.

The ship had a split in the side and heavy chains running fore and aft on the fore deck to relieve the strain which threatened to snap off the bow.

Skipper Reports Crack.

Disclosure of the crack, which assertedly was in the ship when it was launched, was made by the ship's master, Capt. Charles C. Graham, who has been skipper of the Washakie since its launching in 1942, the congressman told reporters.

"Nothing short of grossly careless inspection," Magnuson asserted, "could have permitted launching of such a dangerously faulty vessel.

"This ship, according to the testimony of her master, has not been repainted since coming from the yard, which is Henry J. Kaiser's Oregon Shipbuilding corporation at Portland.

Hidden by Putty.

"Whether the ship cracked open because of—or in addition to—the hidden crack launched with her hull is for the experts to determine. But the fact that the old crack, hidden by putty and paint, even existed is damning evidence of unbelievable carelessness."

Capt. Graham said "the crack was in the second plate on the port side. Almost thru the plate, it was one-eighth of an inch wide and about 24 inches long."

Charges 14 Breakups.

"The fracture which broke the ship apart," he added, "either came from, or came to, this crack, which was filled with red lead and putty and hidden by hull paint."

The Washakie is one of 14 Liberty ships which Rep. Magnuson has charged have broken apart while at sea.

Sen. Mon C. Wallgren [D., Wash.], a Truman committee member, is expected to arrive tomorrow for a hearing on Liberty ship accidents.

In Portland, Edgar F. Kaiser, general manager of the Oregon Shipbuilding corporation, said it "seems hardly possible" the ship could have been launched with a paint covered hull crack.

ORDER TO TURN IN METAL TUBES VOIDED BY WPB

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9 (AP).—Purchasers of tooth paste, shaving cream, and other goods packed in collapsible metal tubes will not be required to turn in a used tube before receiving a full one after March 1, the war production board announced today.

Used tubes were important chiefly for their value in tin salvage, the WPB said, and since the tin content of tubes was reduced last year the tubes now being turned in yield less tin.

The WPB urged consumers to continue to turn in used tubes on a voluntary basis after March 1, especially tubes purchased a year or more ago, which have a high salvage value.

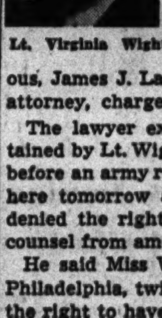
WAC Officer Faces Ouster Hearing Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—Unless last minute legal action can save her, Lt. Virginia Wight, an attractive redhead of the women's army corps, may be ousted from the army tomorrow because she "fraternized" with enlisted personnel and made her superior officer jealous, James J. Laughlin, Washington attorney, charged tonight.



Lt. Virginia Wight.

The lawyer explained he was retained by Lt. Wight to represent her before an army reclassification board here tomorrow after she had been denied the right to select her own counsel from among army officers.

He said Miss Wight, who is from Philadelphia, twice had been denied the right to have a court martial on the charges against her.

Lt. Wight is the daughter of Lawrence N. Wight, instructor in William Penn Charter school at Philadelphia.

Blames Bickering.

Laughlin asserted the charges were lodged against Lt. Wight as a result of bickering among the WAC contingent at nearby Fort Myer, Va., where she is stationed. Lt. Wight serves as liaison officer between WAC headquarters at the fort and the enlisted WACs assigned to chauffeur army officers around Washington.

The Fort Myer commander, Col. Kenton B. Cooley, asked about the case, said, "I have no comment to make."

Laughlin said members of the WAC contingent had been subjected to "persecution and intimidation" by Capt. Evelyn A. Rothrock, with the result that Lt. Wight refused to eat the one meal a day she took at the fort officers' mess.

Charges Persecution.

Charges that Capt. Rothrock subjected Lt. Wight to several acts of persecution in violation of army regulations were made by Laughlin. These included confinement to quarters for eight days without formal charges or notice of what the punishment was for; a reprimand in the presence of a junior officer; and an order to other members of the WAC personnel that they were not to speak to Lt. Wight.

Laughlin said the charges brought against his client included several that she "fraternized" with enlisted WACs and permitted them to come into her apartment.

Tiny Peorian Outtalks 19 Nazis; Nabs All

WITH THE U. S. ARMY IN ITALY, Jan. 9 (AP).—For two days Billy Miller, a 5 foot 5 inch private from Peoria, Ill., convinced his 19 German captors that they were surrounded. Then he got them to surrender and marched them back in a double column across No Man's land. He did all this his first time in the combat line on a front where the Germans have been fighting to their last round of ammunition.

Miller told his story today, prodded by Capt. Russell E. Law of Des Moines, Ia., who took charge of the German lieutenant and 18 enlisted men when Billy brought them in last night.

Billy, a 21 year old infantry man, entered the army last February and came overseas in June. He went into action for the first time Thursday night when his company attacked a hill in the San Vittore area.

Starts Back with Wounded.

"When we got to the top we had two wounded men and one prisoner," said Miller. "They picked a couple of other guys and me to bring them back. Coming back about 50 Germans opened up on us with machine pistols. Our wounded couldn't fight. They pinned us down for a while and then we surrendered."

The Germans started to the rear with a number of the captured Yanks, but Miller was ordered to march ahead of the 19 men in one platoon who circled to the left of the hill to return to their own lines.

In a tunneled-out cave where they put up for the night the Germans started talking about taking Billy back to a prison camp. The lieutenant, who spoke some English, told him what they were saying.

"You'll never make it," said the kid who used to be a dough puller in a Peoria army biscuit bakery. "We've got you surrounded. Listen!"

Nazis Stop for Night.

Outside the gunfire crackled, echoing into the cave. The Germans became convinced. They spent the night there.

Next day the German platoon moved only a short distance farther back, this time to a farmhouse in the valley behind the hill.

Later they started talking again about taking Billy back to prison camp. "We'll all be killed," Billy said. "I tell you we are surrounded by American troops."

He convinced them again, but later the German lieutenant insisted the time had come to contact other German outfits. As he listened, Billy looked out the window. On a distant hill paralleling the valley he saw troops moving.

"I tell you we've got this place surrounded," he insisted. "Come outside and I'll show you."

Officer Gives Up Gun.

They stepped outside and he pointed to the movement on the hill. The lieutenant talked to his men a moment. Then he came over to Billy, unbuckled his pistol belt, and handed it to the doughboy, holster, gun, and all. "You are not our prisoner now," he said. "We are your prisoners." He took his men outside and formed them in a column. "Shall we go?" he asked.

So back across No Man's land the sawed-off kid from Peoria led the column of prisoners. Doughboys watching from our lines thought it was a counter-attack, but held their fire until Miller walked up and reported with his 19 prisoners.

Billy is beginning to be bashful at being called "Sgt. York" by his kidding comrades. He asked if his "folks" would read about his exploit in the papers.

"Tell Them I'm Okay."

"The folks" are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller and two sisters, Betty, 19, and Marilyn, 16. They live at 1043 Ann street in Peoria, where his father works at the Caterpillar war plant.

"Just tell them I'm okay and say hello," he said. Then he fidgeted a minute, looked at the ground, and added: "You might tell Peggy Mitchem of Macon, Ga., that I'm all right, too."

Then he headed back into the lines to join his company.

REDS IMPERIL ESCAPE ROUTES FROM UKRAINE

Armies Close In on Key Railroads.

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP).—The Red army sped the threatened disaster of German troops in southern Russia today by striking to within 33 miles of the Warsaw-Odessa railroad, main Nazi escape channel, and crossing into the Russian province adjoining the Rumanian frontier.

Gen. Vatutin.

The two powerful armies under Generals Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev swept thru 110 more towns and hamlets in their explosive drives, said a Moscow broadcast war bulletin recorded by the soviet monitor.

Attacking along a 450 mile front from near Sarny, key rail junction 35 miles inside old Poland, to the Kirovograd sector in the Dnieper bend to the southeast, the Russians not only were within striking distance of the Warsaw-Odessa trunk railway, but also were nearing several feeder rail lines leading to it out of the Dnieper bend.

Collapse of Nazi Forces Near.

Moscow dispatches said the collapse of all German forces in the Dnieper bend, estimated to number from 500,000 to 750,000 men, was imminent.

In their sweep toward a broad expanse of the old Polish and Rumanian frontiers, the Russians were declared to have captured Polonnoe, a district center of Kamenets Podolsk province bordering Rumania. Other soviet spearheads were within 65 miles of the Rumanian border.

On a 40 mile front inside old Poland the Russians were reported within five miles of Sarny, on the Vilna-Rovno line, whose seizure would force the Germans to rely for north-south communications on railways meeting at Brest-Litovsk, 130 miles farther west.

But of more immediate importance was the capture of Zhornishche, only 14 miles from Nazi defenses along the Bug river, by other units of Gen. Vatutin's 1st Ukraine army, which altogether won more than 70 localities. The town is 33 miles from the Warsaw-Odessa rail artery.

20 Miles from Rail Hub.

The Russians also were only 20 miles from a rail junction on a line leading northeast to Smela. Soviet attainment of this feeder line jutting off the Warsaw-Odessa railway would cut off a large force of German troops already being hit from east and west. East of this area the Russians were only 12 miles from this line with the capture of Buki.

Moscow reports said fresh Hungarian troops had reached the front in an attempt to bolster the shattered forces under German Field Marshal Gen. Fritz Erich von Mannstein.

A total of 105 German tanks, however, was declared destroyed in two days by the Russians, and 78 enemy planes were knocked down in the same period. The Russians also reported killing 2,300 Germans in two actions.

Soviet Airmen Aid Drive.

Soviet airmen were aiding the Russian ground surge toward the vital Warsaw-Odessa line, destroying 13 German planes on the airport at Vinnitsa, 20 miles north of Zhmerinka, a junction on the trunk railway.

Gen. Konev's 2d Ukraine army, the bulletin said, seized 40 more localities in its widening drive on both sides of Kirovograd. Thirty miles north of Kirovograd the Russians won Alexandrovka and other near-by towns on the railway running northwest to Smela. Junction of Vatutin's army pushing thru Buki with Konev's forces driving west past Alexandrovka, points 75 miles apart, would close a ring around the Germans in the Smela gap in a pocket 80 miles deep running back to the Dnieper river.

South of Kirovograd the Russians were reported within 11 miles of a rail hub still serving German troops in the Krivoi Rog and Niko-pol areas farther east in the Dnieper bend.

Two Other Armies May Strike.

Two other Russian armies under Generals Rodion Malinovsky and Feodor Tolbukhin are poised along the lower Dnieper waiting to spring once the Germans in the Krivoi Rog-Nikopol-Kherson areas begin to retreat.

The Germans said another Russian army under Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky had begun attacking again west of Rechitsa, in lower White Russia. This thrust is north of the Pripet marshes, the southern fringe of which is protecting one flank of Gen. Vatutin's army moving into old Poland.

NAZI WAR BULLETIN

The German Sunday war bulletin as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press said:

"Heavy struggles are continuing in the area of Kirovograd, with bitter fighting still in progress in the western part of the city. Resolute counter-attacks repelled the advancing bolsheviks at several places in spite of stubborn resistance. Numerous tanks were destroyed.

"South of Kiev, south and west of Pogrebishche, and in the Berdichev area our troops shattered numerous enemy attacks.

"Formations of the S. S. [elite forces] thrust an enemy brigade back to its original positions in a counter-thrust and destroyed 27 soviet tanks and five storm guns.

"The air force intervened at focal points in the ground fighting with good results, causing heavy soviet losses in men and material.

"West of Rechitsa, the enemy attacked with strong forces on a wide front after heavy artillery preparation. Local dents were cut off and our positions held everywhere.

"Near Vitebsk, the focal point of soviet attacks and their attempts to break thru yesterday were southwest of the city. All of them were repelled after bitter fighting and despite the enemy's use of strong tank and battle plane formations. The soviets lost here 84 tanks, 57 in one sector alone."

VETERAN HERO'S 2 SONS ALSO WIN HONORS IN WAR

Irving S. Balin, 1406 Trumbull avenue, a war worker and veteran of World War I., said yesterday he has been notified that one son was awarded the Purple Heart medal, and another son a citation for meritorious service.

Corp. Maurice Balin [top] and his brother, Sylvan.

The Purple Heart was given to Corp. Maurice Balin, 22 years old, a marine, for wounds received Nov. 26 in fighting in the South Pacific area. The citation was presented to Sylvan Balin, 20, seaman second class, stationed at Dutch Harbor, Alaska.

Corp. Balin enlisted Dec. 18, 1942, and his brother entered the navy two months earlier. Their father served with the Canadian and American infantry forces and was in France for 22 months. He holds several Canadian decorations.

Reds Make Widespread Gains

Yesterday's developments along Russian war front.

GERMAN FLIGHT ACROSS UKRAINE CALLED CHAOTIC

Reds' Drives Upset Slow Retreat.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 9 (AP).—The German army's westward flight across the Russian Ukraine "could almost be described as chaotic today," because the high command's plan for a methodical retreat went awry when the Red army struck suddenly and swiftly in numerous offensives, Berlin correspondents said.

A slow and organized retreat had been prepared, but the swift Russian smashes tangled German communications and caught them with insufficient air support and shortage of fuel oil, the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet's Berlin correspondent wrote.

German military spokesmen gravely admitted to Swedish newspapermen that their armies were fleeing during "one of the decisive hours of the war," in a desperate battle upon which "the outcome of the whole war depends."

"Such a tone has never been used before by a German spokesman," observed Svenska Dagbladet's correspondent.

From a source in a position to obtain accurate information concerning the German war machine came this "inside picture" of the eastern front:

"The German general staff was completely astounded at the increasing strength of the Russians, particularly by their persistent massing of tanks and infantry.

"The general staff was partially prepared for a retreat, but their plans were disorganized because they had not expected to have to carry it out so rapidly.

"New defensive positions were first prepared 10 kilometers [about six miles] east of the [pre-war] Polish frontier but they were not strong. However, another fortified line has been built 20 kilometers [12 miles] east of the 1939 demarcation line. That line is heavily fortified, and strong fortifications have been built also in East Prussia and Germany."

Confirms Reports of Poles.

The story seemingly confirmed previous reports from Polish refugees that the Germans have a defensive line east of the Bug river and have heavily fortified the Vistula river, which extends thru old Poland from Danzig on the Baltic past Warsaw to the Carpathian mountains.

"Germany's critical situation on the eastern front has been worsened by her marked shortage in fighter planes," this informant continued. "German fighter plane production no longer can be maintained, and there is also a shortage of experienced pilots.

"Airmen recently sent to the front definitely are second and third class, some with only 18 to 24 hours of flying time."

This spokesman told Swedish correspondents that American shipments of war materials to the soviet had increased tremendously during the past four months.

"And when the Americans say they sent 2,000 armored cars to Russia, that is only a small part of what Russia has produced herself," he added.

COAT AND GEMS STOLEN.

Raymond Kogut reported to police yesterday that burglars entered his home at 5407 South Kilbourn avenue and took a fur coat and jewelry valued at $365.

LANZA STUDIES VATUTIN DRIVE AGAINST NAZIS

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

[First of Two Articles.]

During the past fortnight, the major military event has been the great offensive conducted by Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's forces, designated as the 1st Ukraine army group.

Vatutin first crossed the Dnieper river at the end of September, just north of Kiev. Russians considered this sector as the focal one of the entire front. Vatutin was strongly reënforced. He did not try to advance until he had assembled a large force of troops, guns, tanks and supplies west of the Dnieper river. On Nov. 4, he struck.

The Germans believed that Vatutin would attempt to move southwards, in connection with another Russian attack which was to move northward from the lower Dnieper. If successful, the Russians would be in a good position to encircle the German armies within the big bend country of the Dnieper. So they withdrew southward, and opposed his advance in this direction.

Attacks in Two Directions.

Vatutin made a small advance toward the south. In the absence of strong hostile forces, he made considerable gains toward the west. He soon reached beyond Zhitomir and Korosten, being then 80 to 100 miles beyond the Dnieper, from where he had started.

On Nov. 15, the Germans struck back. They recaptured both Zhitomir and Korosten, and by slow successive advances, by mid-December had recovered about one-half of the territory that they had lost.

On Dec. 24, Vatutin, having assembled new troops, started another offensive. As before, he attacked both to the south and toward the west. And just the same as before, and for the same reasons, the Germans opposed only light resistance toward the west while they withdrew slowly and gathered strong forces on the south. And as before Vatutin made his greatest gains toward the west, and this time reached the old frontier of Poland, for a net gain from the Dnieper of some 140 miles.

Nazis Avoid Entrapment.

By keeping their southern armies close together the Germans avoided the danger of Vatutin's penetrating between two masses. They seem to have succeeded in this maneuver, without suffering great personnel losses. They had to abandon a large quantity of supplies stored thruout the territory they had to yield.

The German withdrawal appears now to have reached its limit or nearly so. Time has been gained to bring up reënforcements and establish a new line of resistance. Some German troops have arrived at the old Polish frontier. It is not yet known whether they came from the general reserve, or were withdrawn from less active sectors.

Underground Is Problem.

The arrival of the Russian armies inside the Polish border brings forward the question of whether Poland and Russia are going to coöperate. Two pronouncements have been made as to this, both on Jan. 5, one was by Poland, and the other by Russia. Altho they were issued on the same day, there was no connection between them.

The Polish government in exile, which has its headquarters in London, issued a formal statement announcing that on Oct. 27 last it had issued certain instructions to its underground movement in Poland. At that date it had looked as if the Russians might shortly arrive within Poland. The German counter-offensive of November set this movement back some six weeks.

The Polish underground movement was instructed to continue and intensify resistance to the German invaders, and to avoid all conflicts with the soviet armies entering Poland. Its forces were to coöperate with the Russians only provided the Russians recognized the Polish government.

It will be remembered that Russia severed diplomatic relations with the present Polish government in exile some time ago. As it hasn't been renewed, the Polish government has refrained from ordering its underground movement to aid the Russians. It still has orders not to resist them.

Russia Has Own Ideas.

The Russian statement was an article in the authoritative Moscow Pravda. It was a review of an article written by Wendell Willkie, which appeared in the New York Times on Jan. 2. Mr. Willkie had recommended that an understanding be sought with Russia as to the independence of Poland and other small states bordering on Russia. Pravda said that Russia proposes to settle these questions herself, and doesn't need any help from Willkie.

What will happen to Poland will be settled directly with that country. It did not say that this would be thru the Polish government in exile now in London, and which is recognized both by the United States and the British empire as representing Poland. Russia's position is that it doesn't.

SECOND POLISH DIVISION FIGHTS NAZIS IN RUSSIA

Battles Beside Reds with First Class Weapons.

MOSCOW, Jan. 9 (AP).—A second Polish division, the "Henrich Dombrowsky" division, has gone into action with the Red army against the Germans, it was disclosed today.

There now are five foreign units serving with the soviets—a newly organized unit of Jugo-Slavs, another of Czechs, the Normandie squadron of Fighting French pilots, and the two Polish divisions.

Czechs Aid at Kiev.

The Czech unit, the first established, helped take Kiev, and has been in some of the heaviest fighting. Czechs, Poles, and Frenchmen on several occasions have been decorated by the soviet government.

The army newspaper Red Star said the new Polish division would fight the Nazis for "a free, democratic Poland." The Polish Kosciusko division under Maj. Gen. Zygmunt Berling went into action Oct. 12, and has seen at least one hard campaign, winning praise of Red army commanders.

Have New Weapons.

A Pravda correspondent said the Dombrowsky division went to the front with first class weapons, including automatic guns, tanks, gun carriers, and anti-tank guns. It added that "the total weight of tanks sent to the front in Gen. Berling's units weigh twice as much as all tanks which pre-war Poland had."

This and a reference to Berling as "commander of the corps" indicated he was commanding all Polish forces in the soviet armies.

The correspondent said new units of Poles were being trained.

Benes to Meet Poles.

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP).—Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk arranged today to confer soon with President Eduard Benes of the exiled Czecho-Slovak government. Russia's view toward Poland's post-war boundaries is expected to be the topic. Poles here were unwilling to express hope that a solution is near.

"Our position is that Benes has brought a message from Moscow," a spokesman said. "We want to see what it is."

Benes returned to London recently from Moscow, where a Russian-Czecho-Slovak post-war mutual assistance pact was signed.

A Polish information bureau official denied the statement of the Sunday Observer that a soviet compromise offer already had been submitted to the Polish government by Russia.

May Get Part of Germany.

The newspaper's observation was made last night as a spokesman for the "Union of Polish Patriots," an organization set up in Moscow with the soviet government's permission in opposition to Mikolajczyk's London government, implied in a broadcast that the solution lay in giving Poland a part of Germany.

Under the plan, the newspaper said, the soviet government is ready to return the Grodno and Bialystok districts and might negotiate the return of Lwow, but would retain other areas formerly a part of Poland.

Nurse Comes Home a Patient

Lt. Anna K. Smith smiles from her litter as medical corpsmen carry her from the United States army hospital ship Acadia at an east coast port. The nurse was the first stretcher case off the ship after it docked with American battle casualties.

ARMY HOSPITAL SHIP LANDS 776 WOUNDED IN WAR

Blind, Deaf, Burned, Glad to Be Home.

AN EAST COAST PORT, Jan. 9 (AP).—"I can't see the good old U. S. A.—but even the air smells better!"

This shout came from a soldier who lost his sight in a land mine explosion during the crossing of the Volturno river in Italy.

He and other blind soldiers stood aside while their buddies described the scene as a big floating hospital that shuttled between Africa and Italy virtually picking wounded off the beaches at Salerno and Naples during the allied invasion came back to this port with 776 American war casualties.

It was the army hospital ship Acadia, a former east coast liner now operated by the transportation corps of the army service forces. Last June it became the first unit designated as an army hospital ship under the Hague convention, and today's arrival was the first at which newsmen and photographers were permitted.

Carries Only Injured.

Despite lack of weather information and a hurricane that held one day's travel to a total of nine miles, the Acadia made the 14 day crossing under complete radio silence, to avoid conflict with terms of the Hague convention. It carried no combatants, mail or arms.

As the 7,800 ton vessel was warped into the dock here, where a fleet of ambulances and buses and scores of medical corps men were lined up to receive the patients, two military bands struck up a medley of college tunes and swing music. Every man who was able to walk jammed the rail.

"Man, that's American!" grinned Pvt. Steve Czekner of Allentown, Pa. "That music is something we can understand."

He'll See Daughter First.

To Czekner, severely burned in an explosion at Bizerte, the main business is to get home and see his 4 month old daughter, born while he was in Africa.

Unloading of the personnel, which included 291 litter cases and 150 mental cases, was accomplished in little more than five hours. They were taken to Stark General hospital. From there they will be moved to other government hospitals as near as possible to their home town areas.

Doctors said the majority of those aboard—the mental cases, those who have suffered blindness or have been deafened, and those who have lost arms or legs—would be transferred or discharged in a short time. Many of the others, requiring extensive treatment or long convalescence, will be returned to duty. Some of them were wounded only a few weeks ago.

Army Deserter Admits Guilt in 25 Burglaries

FASCISTS BEGIN TREASON TRIAL OF COUNT CIANO

BY P. E. BRIQUET.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 9.—While the long expected trial of the 19 Fascist grand council members who voted to oust Benito Mussolini, which opened yesterday in Verona, Italy, has not yet been announced in Fascist newspapers, foreign observers view the event as the final act in the 15 year feud between the family of Count Galeazzo Ciano, the former duce's son-in-law and former Italian foreign minister, and Roberto Farinacci. Both Ciano and Farinacci strove to become Mussolini's eventual successor as director of fascism.

Count Ciano.

Count Ciano was the first to go on trial before a special party tribunal. He is charged with plotting to overthrow Mussolini.

A former railway man, Farinacci was one of the most dynamic personalities of the Fascist regime. For that reason he was always distrusted and thrust aside by Mussolini, who feared his unquenchable thirst for honors and unsatisfiable ambition.

Once Saved Fascism.

Farinacci was entrusted only once with the key position of party secretary, while attempts were made to satisfy him with the empty honor of minister without portfolio. Yet Farinacci is reputed to have saved fascism and Mussolini from collapse in 1925, when, with the late Marshal Italo Balbo's help, he bucked up the discouraged party members when they were ready to give way before the outcry over the murder of Giacomo Matteotti, Italian socialist leader.

Mussolini preferred the Ciano family, which could not challenge his power because it thrived in his shadow.

The duce permitted young Galeazzo Ciano to marry his daughter, Edda. He introduced his son-in-law to power and intended to make him his successor in the way the old Roman emperors preferred adopted sons.

Seek Separate Trials.

This completely frustrated Farinacci's ambitions. His temperament was contrary to that of young Ciano, who was more of a moderate.

Farinacci is now advocating separate trials for the defendants because, as his own newspaper, Regima Fascista, said, "There are degrees in crime. Some acted in good faith and if all are tried together, those truly responsible may be absolved of guilt." This, it is felt, is aimed directly at Count Ciano and also at Alessandro Pavolini, who is said to be courting Mussolini's favor and trying to save the former duce's son-in-law.

A further difficulty in the trial is the fact that Ciano first fled to the German embassy and was delivered to the duce only after Mussolini had been rescued. Ciano's execution would be embarrassing to everybody except Farinacci.

Farinacci's suggestion for separate trials also is supposed to be aimed at effecting the freeing of Giovanni Marinelli, who as administrative secretary of the Fascist party since 1921, knows too much, especially about Farinacci. Such difficulties are considered to be the chief cause in the repeated delays in the trial.

Kill Nazi Defeatists in Front of Friends, Report

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 9 (AP).—Reports from Germany said today that Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler had adopted a policy of executing defeatists and others accused of undermining German morale in the presence of their acquaintances. This is intended as a most effective deterrent to others. Some estimates, impossible to verify, put executions in Germany for defeatism, espionage, and war crimes at 100 persons daily.

GUARD, 27, HELD AFTER BARRAGE OF SNOWBALLS

Donald O. Michau, 27 years old, 6625 Kenwood avenue, watchman in a war plant, was arrested early yesterday at 53d street and Blackstone avenue after residents complained that he was tossing snowballs thru their open bedroom windows.

Jacob Schuster, 5325 Blackstone avenue, attempted to dissuade Michau from his snowballing, and received a barrage of them for his pains. He called Hyde Park police.

Michau stood his ground when Policemen Phillip Sylvester and Charles Bradley arrived to arrest him, holding the two at bay until a pile of snowballs he had fashioned was exhausted.

He was taken to the station and booked on a charge of disorderly conduct.

CHICAGO OFFICER AMONG 5 KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

LONDON PAPER'S U. S. ISSUE IS OFF PRESSES IN N. Y.

Digest of Daily Mail Is Sent by Microfilm.

New York, Jan. 9 (AP).—The weekly digest of the London Daily Mail, written and set up in England and printed in New York, tomorrow will be headed thru the mail to "desks of influential people in America."

A preliminary announcement of the publication's purpose, "as a contribution towards the closer understanding of the British and American peoples," is repeated on the front page of the first issue.

The Daily Mail's transatlantic edition has twelve 9 by 12 pages. Photographed on microfilm, it was reduced to the size of a dollar bill, flown to New York, reënlarged and printed.

More Than Good Will.

An article describing the new venture, signed by Lord Rothermere, Daily Mail publisher, states:

"With this very great experiment, the Daily Mail breaks new ground again. For the issue now in your hands is more than a spontaneous messenger of good will from one newspaper in England to the people who shape public opinion in America. It is also a pointer to the exciting possibilities of harnessing together the aeroplane, the camera and the printing press in the coming age of flight."

Don Iddon, New York correspondent of the Daily Mail, said 3,500 copies of the first edition were printed, but it was expected "many more" would be called for, for future issues.

American-Made Paper.

He said the edition was printed on an offset lithographic press on "English wood finish" paper of American make, which approaches the "slick" paper used in first rate magazines.

He said no application had to be made to the war production board for the paper, but that such application might have to be made if future editions require any sizable increase in the number of copies printed.

The first issue includes a report on the pre-invasion pressure on British railroads, political and military commentaries by Daily Mail columnists and correspondents and a digest of recent Daily Mail editorials.

A special feature of the transatlantic edition is a page of "messages from your fighting men."

In this section are printed brief personal notes from American service men and women to their relatives.

The persons to whom the service men and women's messages are addressed will receive copies of the Daily Mail's transatlantic edition from New York.

AURORA GUNNER RIPS NAZI SUB; WINS AIR MEDAL

Leo L. Mahoney, 29 years old, a welder in an Aurora war plant before he became a gunner in the navy, has been awarded the air medal for his gunnery against a German submarine in the South Atlantic, the navy announced yesterday.

Mahoney, now an aviation machinist's mate, was cited for strafing the decks of the enemy underseas raider. The navy said his marksmanship prevented the German crew from manning their guns. Outcome of the battle was not disclosed.

TITO WARNS ALL SLAV TROOPS TO JOIN HIS FORCES

'Last Chance to Quit Nazis,' Leader Says.

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP).—Jugo-Slavia's legendary patriot, Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz, sent out a sharply worded call today to all Jugo-Slav officers and men to join his forces which he said were fighting a major action around Banjaluka in the heart of the country.

Tito's call summoned all Jugo-Slav officers, noncommisioned officers, and men "who are in the service of the German occupation" or are followers of Neditch, Pavelitch, and Rupnik, Jugo-Slav puppet leaders, "to report without delay to the nearest military posts of the Jugo-Slav army of liberation."

Battle Five Nazi Columns.

Tito warned 'hem that "the last opportunity has come for these officers and men to break loose from the enemy."

Describing fighting around Banjaluka, Tito's bulletin said that "after receiving reënforcements consisting of tanks and infantry units, five German columns are now trying from different sides to break thru to liberated territory.

"The column near Travnik was beaten back and forced to withdraw. In this fighting, more than 200 German officers and men were killed.

"In eastern Bosnia units of the 24th division fighting against the German Prinz Eugen division have killed 100 German soldiers and several officers, including one major.

Other Thrusts in Croatia.

"Three other German columns in Croatia tried to thrust foward to the province of Baniya from Croatia. Heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy.

"In Slovenia units of the 5th Slovenian brigade encircled a German column. This column was practically annihilated:

"In the Slovenian coastal sector more than 30 German soldiers and officers were killed and much booty captured in fighting against the 3d Slovenian brigade.

Suffers Heavy Losses in Close Fighting.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Jan. 9 (AP).—American and British infantry have punched one-third of the way thru the powerful six mile deep Nazi defense belt guarding Cassino, it was announced today, hurling back strong German counterblows in advances which resulted in the capture of the hamlet of Giusto and took the allies to a mountainside a mile from Cervaro.

Mountain battles developed as the Germans hurled reserves into the struggle to halt the allied advance on a 10 mile front toward Cassino, the stronghold 70 miles southeast of Rome. Despite heavy losses, the 5th army pried the Nazis out of deep trenches and log lined dugouts, and field reports placed the most advanced allied elements about four miles from Cassino.

Allied planes surging out in the greatest waves in weeks pounded home a double blow on an aircraft plant at Reggio Emilia in northern Italy, heavily attacked German forces in Jugo-Slavia, and nipped targets in southern France.

Yanks Fight House to House.

American infantrymen pushing on from San Vittore seized Giusto half a mile farther on after a short house-to-house battle, and reached Monte le Chiaia, 1,500 foot peak south of Cervaro, and four miles southeast of Cassino. Other allied forces closed in on Cervaro from Mount Maio to the northeast.

To the southwest, 5th army men worked up 900 foot Mount Porchia, two miles southwest of San Vittore, and its sister peak, Mount Cedro, less than a mile away.

[A statement on Saturday that the 5th army had captured Mount Porchia proved premature.]

Despite the German counter-attacks, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's offensive had not slackened in the last 100 hours. But only direct hits by heavy bombs and shells could penetrate the enemy dugouts and defenses strung across the mountains and into the plains around Cassino, and the infantrymen had to fight thru machine gun fire and mine fields to win the strong points one by one at heavy cost.

Patrols on 8th Army Front.

On the 8th army front, there was only patrol activity and artillery fire as snow began to thaw in the coastal area. New Zealand Maoris wiped out one enemy patrol.

[Sunday's German war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin said "enemy activity on the south Italian front was on a smaller scale in the sector west of Mignano and Venafro. Several local attacks against our mountain positions were repelled with heavy enemy losses. A strong enemy assault along the Adriatic coast was unsuccessful also. Our own assault party destroyed an enemy base and blew up an ammunition dump."]

United States 15th air force Liberators went to the aid of Jugo-Slav Partisan fighters with a heavy attack on the Mostar air field, 25 miles inland from the coast, a base for Nazi planes guarding the shoreline.

The two largest formations of Mitchell bombers ever to attack the Balkans swept in over Metkovic harbor in Jugo-Slavia, brushed aside 15 Nazi fighters, and rained destruction on docks and railroad yards. Three German planes were downed.

New Type of Raids on France.

Night flying intruder aircraft—a type seldom mentioned on this front in recent months—struck into southern France and downed a number of German planes over their own fields. The Francazal field in the Toulouse area was raided by coastal air force Mosquitos. Similar missions flew into northern Italy.

[This was the first official mention of intruder attacks since the days before the invasions of Sicily and Italy. The intruders were assigned to hit selected targets, especially trains and railways, to prepare the way for invasion. Their operation over southern France and northern Italy probably meant they now are based nearby, possibly Corsica. Berlin broadcasts reported "terror attacks" on the health resort of San Remo on the Italian Riviera and Lucca in Tuscany. Another broadcast declared "the residential district of Garbatella suffered heavily during an air raid on Rome Saturday," and that allied planes had raided Fiume near the Jugo-Slav border.]

General Who Flew It Tells How Rocket Plane Performs

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9 (AP).—The army air forces indicated today that one of the chief handicaps in the use of a new weapon against an enemy—the need for long training of personnel—has been avoided in the jet propelled combat plane.

Brig. Gen. B. W. Chidlaw, chief of the army air forces materiel division, suggested this in a discussion of some of the flying characteristics of the new propeller-less plane which the air forces and Britain's R. A. F. announced Thursday. Gen. Chidlaw, in a talk during an army hour broadcast, told of his impressions while flying the plane.

"I found it acted as most conventional planes do," he said. "Its speed possibilities and performance at high altitude will make it valuable in combat purposes. Our pilots will find no trouble in operating these planes."

Cockpit Found to Be Quiet.

Chidlaw said he had two distinct sensations in flying the jet propelled ship—lack of noise and absence of vibration. He added that "I don't mean to imply that the plane is noiseless or that it flys with the speed of sound," but that the elimination of propellers and the fact that the noise from propulsion was to the rear made for quietness in the cockpit.

Chidlaw said that while the first flight in this country of a jet propelled plane was about a year ago, the operations were kept secret until the recent announcement.

Time Deemed Propitious.

"It was deemed propitious, however, at this time to make announcement of the jet propulsion plane," he added. "While the German technique of propaganda in announcing new and secret weapons of war is to terrorize and frighten the enemy, our reason is prompted by a motive that only a free people can understand.

"Your sons some day will fly these planes. You are entitled to know, within the bounds of national security, that all our resources are at work to turn out better planes and better equipment to make our allied air forces the best air forces in the world."

AACHEN TARGET OF NEW RAID BY R. A. F. BOMBERS

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP).—R. A. F. Mosquito bombers, maintaining the allied pace that has sent war planes over Germany every night of the new year, roamed western Germany last night and the Berlin radio said the ancient western city of Aachen [Aix-la-Chapelle] was among their targets. There was only limited activity over the misty Dover straits today.

The Vichy radio network covering several stations in southern France went off the air tonight.

Aachen, highly industrial city of 160,000 population lying within a few miles of the common boundary of Germany, Belgium, and the Netherlands, has been raided numerous times since the war began.

The German radio claimed that last night's raiders had hit the cathedral where Charlemagne's remains are buried.

The city, now among the top suppliers of Adolf Hitler's war machine, dates back to the first century when it was a favorite resort of the Germans.

Report Hitler Recognizes Gen. Tito as Belligerent

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 9.—Adolf Hitler has recognized Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz as a belligerent, according to private advices from Berlin. The motive behind his recognition is to insure treatment as prisoners of war of Germans falling into the hands of the Jugo-Slav Partisan leader's troops. In return the Germans accord the same status to captured Partisans.

MAP IN TRIBUNE SHOWS POSSIBLE INVASION AREAS

Should Be Preserved for Ready Reference.

If the long looked for allied invasion of western Europe from England comes anywhere between Brest, on the west, and the north coast of the Netherlands, on the east, the colored map presented on the back page of today's TRIBUNE will prove a valuable aid in following its progress. Readers are advised to preserve this map for the time when allied troopships and landing craft may swarm across the English channel.

Some time during the early months of this year American and British troops may storm the German held coast of Europe. Where this attack will come naturally is a secret. Unfortunately the nature of the coast [the shore terrain and the underwater topography] limits the areas in which it will be possible to land powerful, spearheading units.

Four Phases Studied.

The place of invasion presumably will be determined by the suitability of the terrain, its proximity to convenient embarking bases, and the nearness of desirable landing fields to assure an effective air umbrella. The invasion itself may consist of four main phases as follows:

1. The initial landing party will have to storm the defense, win a bridgehead, and hold the ground won.
2. The next wave will follow ashore with weapons and equipment, widen the bridgehead, and erect defense positions.
3. The occupation army then will stream ashore to strengthen the second force, and advance farther inland, while widening the area already won.
4. The main army will land and meet increasing enemy resistance, for once the invasion is under way the Germans will throw every fighting man available into battle.

Many Factors Involved.

Altho some allied publicity points to an invasion launched across the English channel in the area shown on the map, one must keep in mind Prime Minister Churchill's admonition to expect to be misled. Therefore, the invasion may not actually be across the channel at all, but somewhere in the Mediterranean or in Norway.

To carry out a successful invasion on a large scale requires in advance a thoro and precise meteorological survey, taking into account winds, tide, rainfall, fog, and moonlight—all important factors in determining the day of the assault.

To get an invasion force ashore on the north coast of France, a light westerly wind would be of material aid. It would simplify laying a smoke screen along the coast that would drift ashore and blanket the German gunners, at the same time protecting the allied ships.

Islands Play Big Part.

One of the first steps in a cross channel invasion might be the occupation of the Dieppe-St. Malo coast, with the object of pinching off the Cherbourg peninsula. The Channel Islands, which are shown in a large scale inset map with the main map on the back page, thus would become important strategically, since they would offer excellent offshore bases from which to operate.

At any rate, good military practice would appear to call for the recapture of these former British islands, now held by the Germans, as a protective measure, so as not to allow them to threaten the invasion from the rear.

While discussing the possible invasion zones it might be well to examine the factors generally considered essential for invasion of a shore held in force by a well equipped enemy. It will be necessary to maintain strong fighter and bomber cover to prevent hostile bombers from destroying our transports. The terrain of invasion should be suitable for the rapid deployment of troops, and the coast should be such as to allow landing barges to get troops ashore swiftly. Landings should be made near a large harbor, which can be seized and utilized for big ships within a short time.

From Brussels to Bulgaria, Germans Show Invasion Fear

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Allied preparations to invade Europe from the west were reflected in continued German tenseness yesterday, German broadcasts and dispatches revealed.

The circle of German nervousness ranged all the way from the eastern Mediterranean, where the Nazis were said to fear a Turkish break from the non-belligerent ranks, to the coast of Belgium.

Bulgaria Nervous.

The following dispatches and broadcasts mirrored the feeling of uneasiness:

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 9—(AP).—The Morgon Tidningen in a Budapest dispatch today said a tense situation prevailed in Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, and that many feared Bulgaria may attack Turkey. The dispatch said Bulgarians maintain that they no longer can count on Turkish neutrality.

[The London radio said more than 100,000 of the population of Sofia, Bulgaria, have left the city because of allied bombings and general nervousness.]

Soviet Warships Reported.

New York, Jan. 9 (AP).—The Cairo radio broadcast tonight a report that two soviet warships appeared last Monday off the Bulgarian coast between Varna and Burgas, indicating "the Russian army is preparing to land in Bulgaria." However, the broadcast suggested that the account should be received with reserve. Coastal batteries were said to have fire fruitlessly at the warships.

Big Convoy at Gibraltar.

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP).—DNB in a Berlin broadcast today said a strongly escorted convoy of 80 allied tankers and merchant ships arrived at Gibraltar from the Atlantic Saturday.

Aneta Dutch News agency reported that Nazi concern over a possible invasion of Holland had resulted in additional numbers of former members of the Netherlands army and navy being interned as prisoners of war.

EXPECT 5-WEEK AIR BLOW.

A German broadcast from Brussels yesterday said the allies had mapped out an intensive five-week aerial bombardment to precede an invasion, and that Germans in Belgium were especially alert.

"Thousands of people scan the sky every day for increased British air activity because the allies intend to carry out five weeks of air bombardment to precede an invasion," a Transocean correspondent reported. "The German air defense is on tiptoe. Many a flying ace who used to spend his days off in Brussels is now at his post.

"High German commanders are traveling at great speed along the Belgian coast to the enormous pillboxes in the Ostend and Blankenberg region. Even they must submit to strict examination by patrols.

"Only recently a whole carload of terrorists was discovered. There are spies behind the Atlantic wall."

Resume Railway Traffic from Hongkong to Canton

The Berlin radio, broadcasting a dispatch from Shanghai, said yesterday that rail traffic between Hongkong and Canton in Southern China was reopened at the end of September after being at a standstill for six years.

GREEKS TO HOLD FIRST RALLY OF WAR LOAN DRIVE

Approximately 500 Chicago Greeks will gather today in the tea room of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. for the first in a week long series of daily tributes to the nations overrun by the Nazis.

Sponsored by the treasury department, these programs are a prelude to the fourth war loan drive, which opens a week from tomorrow and ends on Feb. 15. The treasury department has set sale of 14 billion dollars' worth of stamps and bonds as its national goal. The national groups' division, whose members will be saluted in this series, has set 50 million dollars as its quota.

The Czecho-Slovaks will be honored tomorrow. The Dutch will be saluted on Wednesday. Thursday will be dedicated to the Poles and Friday to the Norwegians. The French, Danes, Belgians, Luxembourgers, and Jugo-Slavs will be honored on Saturday.

FINDS HUSBAND IN SEABEES IN TRIBUNE PHOTO

A picture in THE SUNDAY CHICAGO TRIBUNE of her husband and a group of other Seabees serving in the Aleutians, yesterday thrilled Mrs. Helen Cory, 424 East 112th street. The husband, Chief Petty Officer Frank Cory, hasn't met his daughter, Virginia Helen, 7 months old, because he has been away from home for 13 months. The Corys formerly lived in Homewood. Cory was a general contractor at Hazelcrest.

ALLIES CAN CUT PATH IN BURMA, CROMIE ASSERTS

Burma's difficult terrain and tortuous routes which allied troops must use in their reconquest of that country present a military problem, but it is one which can be surmounted, Robert A. Cromie, Chicago Tribune war correspondent, said yesterday on the Reviewing Stand over W-G-N. Cromie returned to Chicago recently after 16 months in the South Pacific.

American troops were forced to push thru dense jungles and difficult routes in their New Guinea and Solomon Island campaigns, Cromie pointed out. Despite conditions, the objectives were gained in due time, he said.

Also participating in the discussion on Burma's reconquest were Capt. Michael Fielding, radio commentator and lecturer; Jack Morrow, former editor of the Japan Times and Mail, and Kenneth E. Olson, dean of Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern university. James H. McBurney, dean of Northwestern university's school of speech, served as moderator.

ILLINOISANS GET TOUGH TRAINING, BUT THEY LIKE IT

Rangers Eager to Meet Japs and End War.

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUAI ISLAND, Hawaii, Jan. 2 [By air mail].—Soldiers in amphibious and ranger training here, many of them middle westerners who had never tasted salt spray before their ocean voyage to this advanced school of war, are avowedly grateful for the tough grind they're undergoing.

At a high platform on a green plush mountain slope, large groups were practicing the tricky routine of going over the side via scramble nets of the type and height used on transports in combat. Time after time they would mount several flights of crude stairs to the "deck" with their field equipment and rifles, then waddle down the bucking nets to the ground they'd just left. It was hard, hot work.

Glad of Chance to Learn.

But they lined up eagerly for another try, joshing the slowpokes who got feet or equipment enmeshed on the descent, or boasting of the speed they were developing.

The reason was well expressed by Sgt. Felix Latos, 30 years old, a mortar gunner, son of Joseph and Katherine Latos, 4909 North Kimball avenue, Chicago.

"We take to this hard drilling because we know it's for our own good," Latos said.

Pvt. Alphonse Kizlaitis, 34, of 4217 South Campbell avenue, son of William Kizlaitis, also is an apt and willing war pupil, but he told of his particular reason for preferring to fight in Europe. A native of Lithuania, he went to Chicago in 1930 with his father, leaving his mother, Domicele, behind for later passage.

Sgt. Roger W. Deyhle, 28, whose wife, Brownie, and 9 month old son, David Charles, live at 5325 Blackstone avenue, identified himself as "one of the rugged engineers—ready to mix in and help end this mess as quickly as possible."

Skill was shown by Pvt. George E. Ostrowski, 22, son of Max Ostrowski, 1541 South California avenue, who for 12 years had been an interpreter in the Juvenile court, and by Pvt. Harold E. Tosch, 22, 1951 Prairie avenue, Glenview, a nephew of Al Tosch, owner of a tavern in that suburb. Harold left behind his bride, Loretta.

Many from Chicago.

Others in the training groups included Pvt. Jack H. Heehler, 20, son of Arthur and Mary Heehler, 1301 North Mason avenue, whose brother, Robert, 21, is a Seabee in the North Atlantic; Pvt. John G. Peters, 21, son of John C. and Augusta Peters, 5909 Leland avenue, a rough and ready combat engineer; Pvt. James J. Knight, 21, a rifleman, whose father, Joseph, lives at 2436 Lincoln avenue, and Pvt. Walter Surufka, 23, son of Michael and Victoria Surufka, 602 East 152d street, Harvey.

Several bronzed and husky downstaters were in the same pre-amphibian class. They included Pvt. Glenn Holtz, 22, whose parents, Rudolph and Iona, live at 711 North Charles street, Belleville, and whose brother, Rudolph, is a corporal on China duty, and Corp. William E. Teague, 22, son of Tom and Fenia Teague of Raleigh, near Harrisburg.

Promises to Get a Jap.

To show that life on the stepping off place for battle has its lighter moments, several Illinoisans stopped their rehearsal and other preparations for a local talent play in the "rec hall" as they call it, and flocked about their home state visitor, envious that he had seen it as recently as early last August.

Among them were Sgt. Arthur L. Hensel, 20, son of Arthur and Rose Hensel, 435 South Harlem avenue, Forest Park; Sgt. Bernard A. Flathau, 27, whose wife, Marguerite, lives at 5247 Cuyler avenue; Sgt. Willard E. Ambler, 25, son of John and Margaret Ambler, 3434 Shakespeare avenue; Sgt. Ira Brown, 35, of 2009 Fremont street, who has a wife, Margaret, and a daughter, Mary Janet, 14 months old, whom he last saw 10 days after her birth, and Sgt. Edward T. [Whip] Richter, 32, whose grandmother, Frances Zinta, lives at 2241 Highland avenue, Berwyn.

Hensel announced he intends to keep his promise to get at least one Jap for the boys bac at Western Electric. Sgt. Browne said he's eager to put this special training to its proper use and that all he asks for afterward is home and a world without war. Ambler also said he wants to get home, but not before he has had a whack at the Japs.

BROWDER ASKS NEW PARTY TAG FOR COMMUNISTS

New York, Jan. 9 (AP).—Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party of the United States, has asked that the organization's name be changed and has invited the American public to help pick the new title, the party's national committee announced tonight.

The group said Browder had proposed that the national convention, scheduled to be held in May, alter the name, dropping the word "party."

Browder was said to have asked that the organization be given a name indicating its character "as a Communist association for political education, such as 'American Communist Poltical association.'"

YANKS ATTACK ON TWO FRONTS IN NEW BRITAIN

ADVANCED HDQ., New Guinea, Jan. 10 [Monday]—(AP).—United States marines on New Britain Island have reorganized and resumed their attack on the Japanese around Borgen bay, east of Cape Gloucester, while army troops also are engaging the Japs at the Arawe beachhead to the southeast.

The fighting at Borgen bay was resumed Friday, a spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said, but late reports of the battle are lacking. Yesterday's bulletin said the marines attacking southward from Silimati point on Borgen bay had reached hill 660, an artillery observation point two miles south of the point, and had killed 200 Japanese.

Hint of the severity of the fighting was contained in MacArthur's bulletin today, which said allied heavy bombers had dropped 58 tons of explosives on enemy forward positions at Borgen bay.

Marine patrols moving south of the Cape Gloucester airdrome, which the marines captured Dec. 30, have clashed with Japanese in the jungle-covered hills.

Attack Cape St. George.

Torpedo and dive bombers from Solomon Island bases staged a midday attack on Cape St. George, New Ireland, Friday, causing fires and stirring up a large force of enemy intercepting planes. At least 10 of the Japanese planes were shot down and probably two more, while the attackers lost six aircraft.

Cape St. George, at the south entrance of St. George channel, which separates New Britain and New Ireland Islands, is about 65 miles southeast of Rabaul, Japanese base on the northeastern tip of New Britain. Its location would warrant important consideration in allied strategy should MacArthur attempt a New Ireland landing on the west flank of Rabaul.

Rabaul Bombed Twice.

On the same day of the Cape St. George attack, bombers from the South Pacific command struck again at Rabaul's airdromes. Liberators attacked Vunakanau airdrome in the morning, and Australian Beauforts bombed Lakunai and Tobera airdromes at night. Large fires were started in the dispersal areas.

There was no mention of enemy planes downed in this raid, nor of allied losses. In previous raids on this vital enemy center in the first week of January the Japanese lost 57 intercepting planes. Some of these allied attacks have been only fighter sweeps, inviting the enemy to come up to battle; others were bomber assaults on the airdromes and shipping in the harbor.

Bomb Mili Atoll.

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Jan. 9 (AP).—Seventh army air force dive bombers raided Mili atoll in the Marshall Islands Friday and the Japanese immediately retaliated by attacking Tarawa in the American held Gilberts, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The Japanese caused no damage on Tarawa. The attack was made at night, as usual. Nimitz did not disclose the damage caused at Mili, where the Japanese airbase presumably was the target of the dive bombers.

Navy fighter planes escorted the dive bombers but the Japanese offered no aerial opposition.

MARINE GUNNER HOME; TELLS OF 40 RAIDS ON JAPS

Corp. John T. Mulloy, 22 years old, marine corps dive bomber gunner, arrived home yesterday to rest after a year of action against the Japanese in the southwest Pacific. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Mulloy, 1014 Garfield boulevard.

Corp. John T. Mulloy.

Mulloy said he had been on 40 bombing missions and that they were "smashing successes." The gunner, whose group received a Presidential citation for gallantry in action, is credited with having shot down a Jap Zero over Munda. He disabled another enemy fighter in action over Bougainville, but the victory has not been confirmed as yet.

Corp. Mulloy is a graduate of Mount Carmel High school and also attended Notre Dame university.

He was charged with negotiating with Russia on behalf of Hungary, the broadcast added.

SOLDIER SURVEY ABROAD REVEALS G. O. P. LEADING

tional committeeman, and Mrs. Bertha D. Baur, committeewoman, were hosts, marked Gov. Green's 47th birthday.

One topic in the hotel lobbies was the speech Saturday night by Gov. William H. Wills of Vermont over the air from Montpelier, Vt., in which he extolled Wendell L. Willkie, and attacked some of the latter's opponents as "four year locusts." The statement of Harold W. Mason, Vermont national committeeman, voicing regret that the Wills speech "tended to cause disunity" was echoed by committeemen from other states. Among some of the Willkie supporters, too, the Wills speech did not appear to set so well.

New York Opposition Dropped.

A theory given currency in the hotel gossip was that the Wills radio blast was timed to be touched off almost on the eve of the national committee meeting when it appeared the Willkie group would make a fight against Chicago as a convention city and in favor of sending it to New York, where efforts were being made to raise a bid fund of $150,000.

After it appeared that 60 to 70 committeemen favored Chicago, and Willkie had thrown in the sponge saying he had no objection to this city, the New York movement faded before it came to a showdown. The theory of some was that, after the New York opposition collapsed, the Willkie managers perhaps forgot, or neglected, to pull the time fuse on the Wills blast.

Altho Ralph H. Cake, Republican committeeman from Oregon and leader of the Willkie forces, termed the Wills speech "fine and courageous," gloom prevailed in the suite of rooms that housed the Willkie board of strategy. Other committeemen heard Cake had been taken by surprise with the Wills speech, and concluded Willkie had arranged for it without consulting his campaign leaders.

Bricker's Aids Here.

Some of the friends of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio are on the scene. E. E. Addison, assistant Bricker campaign manager, and A. A. Hoopingarner of Columbus, publicity director, opened headquarters and circulated among committeemen, also getting ideas on sentiment from state chairmen as to the candidates and on conditions in the states.

Spangler, in his press talk, said President Roosevelt would get little help from the Republicans in trying to abandon the New Deal as a campaign catch phrase. "The people," he said, "will take care of burying the New Deal phrase. The New Deal will have to run on its 12 year record—they can't throw the New Deal mantle off with a gesture."

As to a fourth term candidacy, Spangler remarked: "I think he will run for a fourth term if he thinks it will be successful; and if he thinks he won't succeed, he won't run."

Spangler Expresses Confidence.

"I think," he added, "that we can beat a fourth term in 1944 with any candidate the Republicans will nominate on their ticket."

The committee on arrangements, which will have direct mechanical phases of the convention, probably will be named Wednesday, so that it can get busy without delay. In the past, the selection of sub-committees has been left with the chairman, and yesterday indications were this policy would be followed.

2 NEGRO GROUPS ASK SUPPORT OF G. O. P. TICKET

Rap Way Roosevelt Treats Them.

A resolution urging that all Negroes use their ballots to help elect a Republican President and congress in 1944 was adopted unanimously yesterday by the National Negro council and Chicago Citizens' committee. At the same time, the organizations assailed President Roosevelt for his attitude toward Negro problems.

The resolution followed a talk in Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Park way, by the council's director, Edgar G. Brown of Washington.

Tell of Pleas to F. D. R.

The resolution was as follows: "The National Negro council, having for months urged upon President Roosevelt, to no avail, to speak out against discriminatory practices, and to stop their continuance by the federal government against Negroes in the armed services, federal war housing, employment on the nation's railroads under federal control, and in the white Democratic primaries of the south, calls upon the 13 million Negroes in this country to organize, mobilize their full influence, and use their ballots in the north to elect a Republican President and congress in 1944. The one million Negro soldiers enfranchised for the first time by federal and state soldiers' vote laws are especially urged to support Negro candidates.

Hit "Fraudulent Gestures."

"We condemn such fraudulent political gestures as the appointment by President Roosevelt recently of another second committee to investigate the findings of the first President's fair employment practices committee, just one more of those disappointing executive devices following the traditional Democratic party line of keeping the Negro in his place."

GOLD TRUMPET TAKEN.

A gold trumpet valued at $180 was taken from his home in a burglary, Dennis Woodard, 2547 Lake street, reported to police yesterday.

SENATE TO TAKE UP SOLDIER VOTE MEASURE TODAY

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9 (AP).—The Illinois senate will seek to advance to passage stage tomorrow Republican administration bills liberalizing soldier voting requirements. The senate will meet at 1 p. m. and the house at 9 p. m.

Democratic leaders yesterday said they were preparing amendments extending the vote provisions to "thousands" of civilian employes in the merchant marine, the American Red Cross, the united service organizations, and in similar activities.

NATIONALISTS MEET TONIGHT TO HEAR SPARKS

The Republican nationalist revival committee will hold a mass meeting at 8 p. m. tonight in the Grand ballroom of Hotel Sherman. The principal speaker will be C. Nelson Sparks, former mayor of Akron, O., and author of the book, "One Man—Wendell Willkie."

ADD ANOTHER CHAPTER TO THE HISTORY OF AMERICAN AVIATION

JET PROPULSION

BELL AIRCRAFT has built the first American fighter planes powered by jet propulsion engines. The engines, constructed by the General Electric Company, were developed from British designs.

Like the Wright Brothers' flight at Kitty Hawk, we believe that the hundreds of successful flights made by Bell jet propelled ships open a new chapter in American Aviation history.

Jet propulsion, which has now passed both the experimental tests of the Army Air Forces and the Royal Air Force, proves a new scientific principle . . . that planes can now fly without propellers.

Once a principle is proved, count on engineering genius of the Allied Powers to develop it into greater performance records . . . not only to help speed the day of Victory . . . but to pave the way towards new achievements in a post-war aviation world.

WOMEN PREDICT THEY WILL DECIDE ELECTION IN 1944

Faith in New Deal Gone, Say G. O. P. Leaders.

BY JUNE GESERICK.

American women will play a leading role in the coming Presidential election as a part of their responsibility to keep the United States as it was when the nation's fighting men left fireside for battlefront, Republican national committeewomen meeting in the Stevens hotel agreed yesterday. Some predicted the women's vote would be the deciding factor in the election.

Mrs. Grace B. Reynolds of Cambridge City, Ind., Republican vice chairman of the national committee and representative of the western division of the nation, said women in her home state have lost faith in the New Deal and its ability to solve problems that will come up. They feel their primary obligation is to make certain that the boys return to the same country they left and that they find free enterprise and opportunity, she said. Mrs. Reynolds predicted that many voting polls in Indiana, as well as in the rest of her division, will be manned entirely by women.

Midwest G. O. P. Hopeful.

"The spirit of hopefulness for a Republican victory prevails thru the entire western part of the United States," declared Mrs. Reynolds, "and victories in those states since 1940 further point to the Republican trend."

In the state of Washington 1944 truly is leap year for women as far as politics are concerned, reported Mrs. Paul Henry of Seattle, national committeewoman from Washington. She said men were busy with soldiering, war production, and other essential work and that the bulk of the election work had fallen on women.

"Men and women are equally anxious to defeat the New Deal," Mrs. Henry declared. "The women want something left of America to which their sons and husbands can return. The proximity of Washington to the war with Japan has made Washington very war minded."

Heavy Jersey G. O. P. Vote.

Mrs. Henry is the mother of three sons in the navy. Two already are overseas and another is waiting his orders. A fourth son recently received a medical discharge from the army.

New Deal errors will be responsible for a heavy Republican vote in New Jersey, Mrs. Pearl M. Bridegum, national committeewoman from the east coast state, predicted.

"The New Deal mistakes will win many Republican votes in New Jersey," declared Mrs. Bridegum. "Women are irked by their inability to purchase necessary clothes for their children, by bungling of gas rationing, and by the coal shortage. They are resentful at too much federal government interference in their personal and private affairs."

Democrats Join G. O. P.

"Friction and lack of harmony in the Democratic party in New Mexico further assures a Republican victory," Mrs. Earl Moulton of Albuquerque, N. M., declared. "Many Democratic women who are anti-New Dealers have joined the Republican ranks. Women who have never before participated in politics are assisting in the coming campaign."

Mrs. John E. Hillman of Delta, Colo., urged more work and further sacrifices from women who would engage in politics. She lauded political auxiliaries as "proving grounds" for women who "after all are comparatively new in the field."

Badgers Like Dewey.

Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, national committeewoman from Wisconsin, reported that her state has strong sympathies for Thomas E. Dewey.

"Wisconsin is and always has been a Republican state. The feeling for the Republican party is very strong this year and our women, realizing this is a critical time, are willing to do everything to win the election for the Republicans."

NAVY RESERVES DO MAJOR PART OF SEA FIGHTING

Run and Man Tough Little Ships.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9 (AP).—Navy reserves are doing the greater share of the big job of smashing enemy fleets thruout the world. This is the conclusion of old-line regular navy officers who have watched the navy expand from a small peace time force to the largest fleet that ever sailed the oceans.

"These boys really are winning the war, and they're not getting enough credit," said one officer in Washington who has had years of service at sea since his graduation from the naval academy at Annapolis.

The reserves—"feather merchants" if they hold commissions—haven't climbed to high command. Instead they're filling the little jobs, the fighting jobs.

Some of the reserve officers have commands, certainly, but not of the big and glamorous warships. Practically all the landing craft—mean little vessels that move men and materials ashore for invasions—are skippered by reserve officers, manned by reserve personnel.

PT Boats Reserve Manned.

The PTs—deadly motor torpedo boats that have smashed enemy warships and cargo vessels alike—mostly are commanded and manned by reserves. So are most of the gun crews of merchant vessels, fighting little units with 3 inch guns as their principal weapons, who have been knocking off enemy submarines and airplanes while their cargo ships slog thru the seas carrying supplies for the fighting fronts or materials for home consumption.

Largest commands given—thus far—to the reserve officers have been destroyers, the four stackers of World War I. vintage which are guarding convoys for the most part, altho some have seen action away from convoy routes.

Notable among the reserves commanding destroyers is Lt. Cmdr. Charles H. Hutchins, 31 years old, Terre Haute, Ind., who rode his destroyer Borie up onto the back of a German submarine and held the U-boat while his crew—mostly reserves—battled the Nazi raiders with pistols, shotguns, and knives.

Rescuer Wins Medals.

The Borie sank the sub, but was damaged so severely that she had to be destroyed by other ships in the task force of the escort carrier Card. That exploit won a unit commendation for the Card.

It wasn't mentioned at the time, but Skipper Hutchins wasn't the only reserve officer—all of the ships in the Card's unit excepting the carrier itself were under command of fighting reserves.

Literally hundreds of examples of heroism and hard fighting by reserves are in navy archives and in records of the many decorations awarded for valor—three reservists even have been given the nation's highest award, the medal of honor.

CONGRESS BACK TO TACKLE NEW AND OLD ISSUES

Awaits F. D. R.'s Report on Conferences.

dreds of thousands of American lives. It is known that many of his advisers have been urging him to recommend new legislation to outlaw strikes during the reminder of the war—legislation that possibly would take the form of a law to conscript men and women for work in factories and mines.

Plan New Army Vote Bill.

Scheduled for early action is soldiers' vote legislation. Administration leaders will attempt to put a new bill thru the senate, which emasculated the Lucas-Green bill on the ground that it was an unconstitutional invasion of state prerogatives. The new bill will revive the proposal of a federal vote commission appointed by the President to supervise the voting of the 10 million men and women in the army and navy but devoid of power to rule on the validity of votes.

In the house sentiment strongly favors the bill offered by Rep. Charles Vursell [R., Ill.], which would retain the service voting machinery in the hands of the states but specifically instruct the army and navy concerning distribution of the ballots.

Soldiers' discharge pay will be considered in the house as soon as the committee on military affairs reports its action on the bill passed by the senate providing for mustering out pay ranging from $200 to $500, according to length of service. Indications are that the house committee will lower the scale.

Revive Subsidy Fight.

The question of subsidies to be paid to dealers to compensate them for rolling back prices which the leaders of organized labor have demanded in lieu of wage increases will be revived in a super-heated atmosphere of controversy. The administration forces and their urban supporters are fighting for subsidies, while the farm bloc is against them. An effort to effect a compromise on limiting the use of subsidies is in the offing.

First on the senate agenda is the bill to increase federal taxes 2 billion 275 million dollars, which is about one-fifth of the amount asked by the treasury. The measure will be opposed by the administration not only on the ground of inadequacy but because of other features, notably the provision modifying the law on renegotiation of war contracts under which the government recovers war profits deemed excessive.

The Republican congressional food study committee and a majority of the house committee on agriculture will press for legislation to consolidate control over prices, production, and distribution of food under a single administrator.

Frame UNRRA Bill.

The house foreign affairs committee is framing a measure to authorize appropriations for the work of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, for which the United States will be asked to contribute 500 million dollars initially and a billion or more later.

The return of industry to civilian production after the war will be studied by committees of congress with a view to formulating legislation later in the session.

By the end of this month the appropriation bills for the fiscal year 1945 will begin rolling out of the house mill. The spending, which for the current fiscal year totaled 114 billions, is expected to be somewhat less for the next year because of economy demands and the lessening of capital outlays for war production.

IN NEBRASKA Flow Rivers of Milk

Nebraska's pioneers had an abiding faith in the fundamental American doctrine guaranteeing to all the right to work, to profit thereby, to save for future needs.

Firm in that belief, Nebraskans★—and the Union Pacific—have worked together for 75 years to develop the State's resources. Their efforts have been richly rewarded.

Today, "rivers of milk" flow from modern dairy farms . . . herds of livestock, fields of corn, grain and sugar beets provide essential, health-building foods for our armed forces and home-front workers. Thus, the flame of faith lightens the path to victory.

Union Pacific is an outstanding example of what it means to have faith in America, its resources, and its future. Built in Civil War days through wild, undeveloped territory . . . surviving many lean, troublesome years . . . its "Strategic Middle Route" is today one of the Nation's transportation life-lines.

These critical times have given Americans a broader understanding of the importance of their railroads. They know how tremendous and vital is the task of transporting war materials and troops. They know that despite serious handicaps their railroads are doing a miraculous job. Yes, America has re-discovered its railroads—has faith in them—just as the railroads have faith in America.

MR. WALKER'S GAME.

Frank Walker, the chairman of the Democratic national committee, has renewed the suggestion that the Democrats and Republicans adopt identical planks on foreign policy at their nominating conventions this year. Mr. Walker seeks to create the impression that the Republicans, in showing no enthusiasm for this proposal, are playing politics.

Mr. Walker isn't fooling anybody. His real motive is transparently clear. He has read the recent election returns from New York, New Jersey, and Kentucky, and he knows, as everybody else knows, that the Democrats cannot win in November except by trickery, such as they employed in 1940.

If, once again, thru their Wall street connections, the Democrats can gain control of the Republican convention they can not only nominate Mr. Willkie or some other New Deal echo, but also write a platform which will deprive the Republicans of their strongest issues. That is why Mr. Walker is maneuvering to take foreign affairs out of the campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt doesn't want to face the necessity of defending his record of lend-lease squandering of American resources while foreign nations hoard theirs. He doesn't want anything said in the campaign about his neglect of American interests; his course has won him the esteem of the foreign princes and potentates in whose society he delights, but it hasn't won him any American votes.

The Democratic national chairman is aware of the plight of his party as the campaign approaches and he is desperately seeking a way out. His own ranks are divided. Mr. Roosevelt has lost his once great following among the farmers and the urban middle classes. War prosperity has made it impossible to keep the impoverished in line with threats of doles withheld. The south is in revolt. The administration is unpopular everywhere and is growing more so from day to day. Only trickery and cunning can deliver the fourth term. That is the real explanation of Mr. Walker's maneuver. If the Republicans fall into his trap, they won't deserve to win and they won't win.

TENSION IN CANADA.

Leftist members of the Montreal municipal council have been talking about a "total strike" in the province of Quebec if the demands of the striking Montreal city employes are not met promptly. A total strike is believed to mean a general strike; the general strike is a weapon of revolution.

The present troubles in Montreal began a few weeks ago with a strike of policemen and firemen. That was settled by granting their demands. Now the white collar city employes are out and they have gradually increased their pressure. The other day the men and women who guard the city's health joined the strike, meat and milk inspectors, and clinical workers among them.

The situation is ominous and once again draws attention to the extraordinary state of affairs in the dominion. Canada is paying the price of its official and unofficial censorships. Its people are often ill informed. Their newspapers are all subject to government censorship and a large section of the press is at the service of Canada's big shots in industry and finance whose interests are not always identical with those of the people. These newspapers never lack space to admonish America as to its duties and derelictions, but are a good deal less aggressive in their attack on their own domestic troubles.

After we had written somewhat in this vein a few weeks ago the Toronto Globe and Mail undertook to reply. We might have been generous enough, we were told, "to admit that thousands of weekly papers which exert a tremendous influence" are not subject to the kind of big business and big financial influence we had been discussing. In fact, there are not "thousands" of weekly newspapers in Canada unless their number has doubled in recent months, but aside from that inaccuracy we are quite willing to grant the point, particularly as it has no bearing on what we had said. We weren't talking about Canada's weekly press, as the editor of the Globe and Mail well knew.

Thanks in no small part to the behavior of the newspapers that we were talking about, social and economic tensions develop in Canada, such as the present one in Montreal, without any general understanding by the people of Canada of the forces at work. Explosions then are unavoidable because abuses have gone uncorrected. No doubt the sharp leftward swing in recent Canadian elections can be explained largely in these terms. The official and, more especially, the unofficial censorship of the Canadian press bears its very considerable and continuing share of responsibility for the growth of radical and revolutionary movements across the border.

WASTE PAPER.

The first thing the average family does after it has made arrangements with a transfer company for a van to move its household goods to the new address is to dash down to the corner grocery and beg, borrow, or buy an assortment of cardboard cartons in which to pack the family belongings.

Without cartons the moving just couldn't be done. Our army is in the same fix. It is the most mobile fighting force on the earth, moving men, materials, and supplies every moment of day and night to the world's most remote corners in quantities that would make a family moving van look like a thimble on wheels. The army can't move without cartons, either.

For the first time, a lot of people are learning that cartons are made of waste paper. Our war industries and fighting services have used cartons in such quantities that the waste paper from which they are made is running short. To keep food, munitions, blood plasma, and all the other supplies moving to the war fronts, the public is going to have to help Uncle Sam rustle up a lot of waste paper.

Anything at all will do, and there is plenty of it around. Waste basket scraps should be baled in one bundle, newspapers tied in piles about 12 inches high in another, and magazines bound separately in stacks of up to 18 inches. Set them all on your curbstone Jan. 15 and a truck will come around and pick them up.

The government has promised that nobody is going to get much out of this voluntary waste paper collection unless it is the wounded soldier who gets his blood plasma on time because there was a carton to ship it in, or the enemy city that gets its bombs on time because we furnished the waste paper for the bomb collars that got the blockbusters safely to the front.

The 10 or 15 minutes spent in ransacking cellar or attic for old papers, tying it up, and placing it at the curb may turn out to be your most valuable contribution to the war if it saves a soldier's life or speeds a well aimed shell or bomb at the target.

GOV. GREEN'S MESSAGE ON SOLDIER VOTES.

Gov. Green made an important point in addressing the two houses of the legislature, assembled in response to his call to enact soldier voting legislation. It is that while congress may conceivably have the power to provide federally conducted elections for senators and representatives, only the states have jurisdiction over the manner of choosing electors, and thus the President.

The Constitution says that congress can alter state regulations for choosing members of congress, but in a separate section, governing the choice of Presidential electors, it flatly says, "Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof shall direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in congress."

The attitude of the Supreme court toward federal election statutes has changed somewhat in recent years. The court held in 1937 that the federal government has the power to punish election frauds, whereas earlier decisions had cast doubt on that power. But federal power to punish fraud, to which the Constitution makes no specific reference, certainly cannot be extended to the power to conduct Presidential elections, which is specifically vested in the states.

Thus fresh grounds are found for congress to reject Sen. Lucas' latest bill to set up a federal election commission. The fundamental argument against his measure remains unchanged. It is designed to steal the election for the fourth term. But the bill, in addition to being fraudulent in intent, is also unconstitutional.

The minority members of the legislature have shown no disposition toward any mischievous obstruction of the Benson-Cutler bills, which embody the governor's program to make soldier voting practicable. If there is any disposition, however, to resist the state legislation in order to demonstrate in favor of Sen. Lucas' shabby trick, Gov. Green's remarks should serve as an effective deterrent.

Federal ballot legislation is, of course, necessary, to implement the absentee balloting plans of the various states. Secretaries Knox and Stimson have just demonstrated that they are still determined to sabotage service voting if they can. Congress must give them clear instructions as to their duties to coöperate, and thereafter see that they obey the law or are impeached.

THIRTY DAYS HATH . . .

Members of the Russian, Ukrainian, Serbian, and Bulgarian Orthodox churches and all others who follow the Julian calendar celebrated Christmas on Friday, Jan. 7. Elsewhere in the world it was celebrated on Dec. 25, according to the Gregorian calendar, which has been in use in English speaking countries for the last 200 years or so.

Ever since man became cognizant of time as a factor in his life, he has been devising ways of keeping track of it. The Gregorian calendar, which is admittedly far from perfect, was the first to be based on the true length of the solar year which astronomers have found to consist of 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, and 46 seconds. We shall have an extra day in February this year, and on every leap year, to take care of that extra quarter day left over in the computation of solar time.

The World Calendar association in New York is attempting to work a further revision in the Gregorian calendar which would provide 12 months, yet start each year on a Sunday and divide the months into quarters of equal length.

Under the World calendar plan, January, April, July, and October would have 31 days each, and all the other months would have 30 days. This makes a total of 364 days in the year. The final day of the year, which ordinarily is Dec. 31, would be a world holiday known as "Dec. W," or year-end day. Every four years, at the end of June, another world holiday, "June W," would be added to bring the calendar into solar time.

This is a reform that would be to the advantage of all publishers and most of the business firms thruout the world, and THE TRIBUNE would welcome it. At the same time, we recognize that the people who celebrate Christmas on Jan. 7, and a good many others, might have objections to it on religious grounds and we do not believe that the added convenience to us would be worth the pain to them.

It can be hoped that religious objections to a new and simplified calendar some day can be overcome and that all people can be persuaded to accept it. If so, the last objection to a useful change will have disappeared.

THE BLACK SPOT.

The favorite underground sport in France this winter seems to be passing the black spot to "collaborationists," after the manner of Robert Louis Stevenson's buccaneers in "Treasure Island." This column notes with alarm that the doomsters list, in addition to certain Vichy statesmen, contains the name of Sacha Guitry, whose only portfolio, as far as we know, covered the theatrical box-office. To find him posted as future meat for guillotine, firing squad, or assassin's pistol is disturbing, even if he has taken the Nazi occupation of Paris too lightly and absent-mindedly said "gesundheit" when Prussian officers sneezed.

Of Sacha Guitry's political attitudes and utterances during the last four unwholesome years in Paris we know absolutely nothing. On his pre-war record, however, we are aware that for more than 30 years he has had a position in the Paris theater comparable to that of Noel Coward or George M. Cohan on our side of the fence.

* * *

Sacha is the son of a greater and more serious actor, Lucien Guitry, and was born, by accident of travel, in St. Petersburg, alias Petrograd, alias Leningrad; hence his given name. His precocity approached that of Orson Welles, for he was barely of legal age when he scored his first hit as a theatrical writer. Much of his work has been too fluffy for export to the Anglo-American theatrical markets, but some of his biographical dramas, written for his father, have reached London and New York in translation; examples, "Deburau" and "Pasteur."

As an actor, Guitry co-starred for many years with his wife, Yvonne Printemps, a comedienne as charming as her name. They frequently acted his plays in London, where they were popular in spite of a foreign language handicap. In 1926 Guitry appeared in New York in his own "Mozart." He has also been active in the French cinema as star and director.

LINES FOR "BUD."

I wish you were home.
The house is too quiet—
I want your young friends
To cause a near-riot,
"Raiding the icebox,"
With laughter and song.

I wish you were home.
My "den" is too neat—
I want on my desk
Just one "sax" lesson sheet,
Precisely the place
Where it doesn't belong.

I wish you were home. . . .
To argue . . . to tease me:
To, once in a while,
Unexpectedly please me . . .
To vex me: then smile
(How forgiveness resist?)

I wish you were home.
It's surprising, but so,
For as your "kid sister"
I'm privileged to know
How much a big brother
Can be missed!

When Choppy Was Lost and Found.

Choppy says he sat around 72d and Yates avenue for three days, waiting for some one to find him.

He says he cannot understand why no one could find him, because he was perfectly plain to see, a little white dog with a dark cap on his head. Choppy says he made himself as conspicuous as he could by sitting up pretty, offering to shake hands, and even barking.

O, sometimes some one would stop and give him a pat on the head and say, "Nice doggie," but that to a dog is not being found, Choppy says. If you are found you are taken home, according to Choppy.

So, he says when he saw me coming down the street he knew at once that I was a "natural" to find him. He says he went thru his bag of tricks, sat up, waved his paws offering to "shake," and barked a little, but with me it was not necessary.

Choppy says I stooped down, shook hands with him, and said right out loud, "Now, there is a little, white, raggedy dog just like I have been wanting for years." Then, Choppy says, I picked him up in my arms and he knew he had been found.

Well, Choppy says that when I picked him up I said something about a sore back and being on my way to the osteopath for a treatment, but after I had toted him around all afternoon I forgot all about taking myself to the osteopath and took him to the veterinarian instead.

Choppy says that was eight years ago and he has learned a lot about people since then, but he still cannot understand why people have four legs but use only two for walking. Roy Engel.

THE EXPLORERS.

(1500-1600.)

The image of a new world's wilderness
Lay dimly on the old world's jaded eye,
Like something glimpsed thru half forgetfulness
As the long sixteenth century went by.
But there were some of eager venturing blood,
With dreams of gold and lust for conflict wild;
Men fit to meet the ocean's surly mood
And cope with nature's raw and testy child,
Who being led by strong and canny souls,
Pushed forth to search the other half of earth
Beyond the lonely deeps and unknown shoals—
The midwives of a large portentous birth.
Their untamed spirits gaunt with suffering rise
Like ghosts prophetic to our wondering eyes.

GUARD AGAINST ANEMIA IN CHILDREN.

IF OUR children are to grow and make normal progress in school, they must be well. One of our most important considerations is the state of the blood. As we know, infants may develop anemia.

At birth they are supposed to have stored enough iron within the liver to last for the first few months of life. Cow's milk contains very little of this metal. This means that after the age of six months, meat juice, vegetables, and cereals will be needed.

In this same connection, we must not forget that a babe born prematurely may not possess an adequate amount. Replacements will be necessary by the end of the third month. Apparently it is not possible to feed this mineral to the mother and expect her to pass it on to her offspring via breast milk. But we can make certain that during pregnancy the mother is provided with a sufficient quantity.

Then, too, we must consider illness. Colds and bronchitis drain resistance. This is true of adults as well as of boys and girls. But the effects of toxins upon young babies is far more serious. The red cells in any persistent respiratory infection must be supported. They may be destroyed should kidney disease or pneumonia present itself.

What are the symptoms of anemia? The mere presence of pallor is not diagnostic. Blonds are usually pale. In fact, it is not an uncommon experience to encounter a youngster who has too little coloring material in his corpuscles but who hides the true situation because the skin is flushed. Excitement brought on by a visit to the doctor may be deceiving.

As a rule, the child tires easily and becomes more and more listless and irritable. Sometimes a marked change in disposition will be observed, while lack of appetite is characteristic. The thing to do is to examine the blood carefully—whereupon the answer will be forthcoming.

Number one in treatment is a well balanced food régime. This may require special attention during the rationing period. Liver may be prepared as soup or in any other fashion and should be served several times each week, depending upon the gravity of the condition. Iron may be prescribed in small doses.

Among British youngsters there has been a marked drop in the hemoglobin [red coloring matter] level since the beginning of the war. We can guard against this handicap with iron containing foods such as liver, green vegetables [including spinach], egg yolk, raisins, prunes, molasses, oatmeal, and whole wheat bread and cereals.

Sweets between meals do no basic harm except to spoil appetite. If the lad comes to the table hungry he is sure to consume more of the plain but substantial edibles which will make him stalwart and strong. The foolish idea that meat is not good for tots must be corrected. The growing boy demands as much as his father and far more than his mother.

DOUBTFUL.

A. J. writes: Can infantile paralysis attack a person more than once?

REPLY.

If second seizures occur at all, they are rare. Most adults appear to be fully protected, either because the nervous system is more mature and hence less susceptible or because an early, mild bout established immunity.

HIGH AND LOW.

T. C. writes: Is it hard on the feet to wear flat shoes during the week and two inch heels on Sunday?

REPLY.

You are overstraining your pedal extremities one day in seven. The metatarsal arches receive an unnatural thrust. OK, however, if symptoms fail to appear.

PUNCTURED LOBES.

F. E. P. writes: Does piercing the ears and wearing earrings have any effect on headaches?

REPLY.

This is an old superstition which has no basis in fact. Perforate the lobes as you will, but head pains will not vanish until the cause is found and removed.

TREMBLING.

F. T. M. writes: What causes the hand to shake, particularly in writing or reaching for a cup, etc.?

REPLY.

This is known as an intention tremor. Agitation of the hand is intensified when a purposeful movement is attempted. While the emotions may be responsible, a disorder of the spinal cord should be thought of.

PORK FOR AGED.

B. P. writes: Should a man of 82 eat pork? It is his favorite meat.

Now stand deserted in the snow.
Youthful gangdom's cropped big shots

Next to the one marked "Skull and bones"
Is just red paint, not now the same

More About the Masked Woman.

In the mail: "The little lady who wore a mask was one of our customers. She also wore a large brown wig on which was placed a large hat. She shopped and spoke intelligently on various subjects, and it always surprised me that she seemed so normal in all respects but the one of makeup. The story we heard was that at the time of the Iroquois fire she was putting on makeup back stage, and the shock affected her mind in that one respect. The lower half of her face was covered with scarlet cream rouge and the upper half with black cream, over which she wore a small black mask. I am glad to hear she has passed on to where all is perfection and people do not stare and smile. Perhaps she smiled at us. She had a right to. She was a nice, pathetic little woman."

Men, Democracy, and War.

The soldier who dropped in to chat was intelligent, highly so, and sensitive. He had been in the army eight months, and he was worried about what the caste system, as practiced in the American army, will do both to the officers and the enlisted men involved in it.

"Now, I," he began, "am not supposed to look an officer in the eye. I must look over his head or beneath his eyes. If you've known an officer all your life, you can't go up and talk to him, and he can't talk to you. One officer in our outfit tried to break this up. A captain told him he would be busted if he kept it up.

"Where I am, the officers and men eat the same chow at the same time, but at separate tables. The men's tables are jammed together, and I hadn't noticed until a young Chinese, a private, called it to my attention that the officers' table has a four foot clearance on all sides. This boy fought three years in North China before coming to the United States. He couldn't understand it. I had no answer for the kid other than that in any kind of a ritual when you have a diety, you separate it. He said all the Chinese eat together.

"It is extremely hard when you are under pressure as we are to know when you're thinking straight. The indignities may not be nearly as important as you think they are. You may be creating a martyr idea, but it's been a great problem to me because in all my life before I never went thru any ritual. I could always meet as an equal. I'm a little shocked at the ritual I go thru now. I find myself repeating the word 'O' to satisfy my ego, saying, 'O, yes, sir, O, yes, sir.' You get caught in the system. Some people, of course, have a real appetite for the thing. They use it. It gives them power and security.

"In a sense it's like a comedy of errors, in a democracy. My view is this: If I dislike the whole thing, I want to dislike it for the right reason, not for the wrong one. I want to dislike it because the impulse behind it is not what our impulse should be in this country.

"I just hope," as he rose to go, "that by the time I have finished, I will have learned enough about what I don't know to get along. I'm the first guy to give all credit to some one who has achieved. I enjoy giving respect when it is earned, but . . . well, maybe I'll be a better boy after this. I don't know."

THE PRICE OF EGGS.

Sumner, Ill., Jan. 4.—A few weeks ago I was waiting in line in an office. After a few minutes had passed, utter strangers were in conversation. One woman whirled on me, "You farmers ought to be making money, 48 cents a dozen for eggs!" I could understand her protest. I answered, "It does seem so but it isn't always true. If I may take my case, one of hundreds of small farmers, part of whose livelihood depends upon a small flock of 75 to 150 birds, they have been in a slump since summer, a natural seasonal decline. I get six to nine eggs a day and 44 cents a dozen.

"Remember, rains and floods kept us out of the fields until June to be followed in this belt by dry weather and drouth. We have no corn, feed must be bought, and the cheapest is $3.25 per 100 pounds."

SAYS NURSES ARE UNDERPAID.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—I can't help being curious as to why the nurses in the municipal tuberculosis hospitals in Chicago and vicinity are so desperately underpaid. Their salary of $110 a month represents, in my opinion, not only a disgrace to the administration, but an insult to the intelligence and loyalty of these women who work so hard and run a great risk of losing their health. It would seem that the years of rigorous training and experience these nurses must undergo is so much time wasted so far as it is able to help them in earning a living. Untrained, undisciplined, and unseasoned help in every profession is being eagerly accepted at far more generous figures than the wages paid to these nurses.

"POTENTIAL TOOLS."

Keokuk, Ia., Dec. 27.—When Mr. Churchill wished to urge us to put another foot into that English channel neighborhood war, he said: "You just send us the tools and we'll finish the job." Could he have had at that time a clear conception of our indifference to our own vital interests, and been counting our soldiers as potential tools to finish out Britain's order? Placing 73 per cent of our boys to 27 per cent of other countries' boys to make up the first invasion for the western front, looks like all the English boys are saying, "You first, Mr. Gaston."

MORE ON HEART BALM.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—On Dec. 31 an article entitled "The Heart Balm Law" was published over the name of Thomas J. Cavanagh and Sol R. Friedman with reference to the decision of Judge Frank M. Padden, declaring the "heart balm law" of 1935 unconstitutional.

The case of People vs. Mahumed referred to in that article declared that the section with reference to co-respondents in divorce matters and the penalty section thereof is unconstitutional on the ground that these sections did not carry in their titles the proper description of what was contained in these sections—and, for this reason only, held these sections to be invalid. The rest of the "heart balm" law prohibiting such action as breach of promise is still valid.

Such suits, because of the many cases of blackmail and extortion which arose from the mere threat to file a suit and publicize it against an innocent person, causing him to pay hush money, motivated the legislature to pass this law and to declare such suits against the "public policy" of this state. Supreme or appeal courts of five states since the year 1935 have sustained and declared "heart balm" statutes legal and constitutional, these states being New York, New Jersey, Alabama, Michigan, and Indiana.

TRASH PILES UP IN PHILADELPHIA CITY WALKOUT

Strike Threatens Health, Authorities Warn.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 9 (AP).—With little hope in sight for settlement of the four day strike of 3,000 city employes, rubbish and refuse increased hourly today on the streets of debris littered Philadelphia.

Health authorities warned that the city will be faced with a serious health menace unless tons of trash and garbage soon are removed from sidewalks.

"Accumulation of filth of any kind is certain to be deleterious to public health," said Dr. H. R. Owen, former director of public health.

Warns of Disease Carriers.

"It increases rodents and other disease carriers. If there is a breakdown in the filtration plants, only God knows what may happen, because both typhoid and infantile paralysis are water-borne diseases."

Adopting a slogan of "No dime, no work," the public works employes, all members of three American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes' locals [AFL], have voted to continue their walkout until they are assured a pay increase of 10 cents an hour. Their base pay averages $5.28 a day.

Union leaders have proposed a back-to-work movement, but the members rejected it.

Mayor's Pledge Futile.

Meanwhile a promise by Mayor Bernard Samuel to "use my best efforts to effect an increase in wages" if the men go back to work immediately, has been to no avail.

Robert Thompson, a mediator for the Pennsylvania department of labor and industry, said he has arranged a meeting tomorrow of Mayor Samuel and representatives of the three locals.

Doubt that the men would return until they obtain the 10 cent increase was expressed, however, by Robert Lonergan, state representative of the union, who previously had joined local leaders in urging an end to the strike.

The men involved in the walkout are employes of the water bureau, the bureau of highways, and the street cleaning bureau.

WORKERS VOTE TO END STRIKE AT SHIP YARDS

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 9 (AP).—Union employes of the Cramp Shipbuilding company voted tonight to end a strike which for four days has halted production of ships at the Cramp yards.

The men agreed to return tomorrow morning, altho earlier in the meeting they booed when heads of the union local reported that national officers of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers [CIO] had ordered the strike terminated.

The 17,000 workers walked out in a dispute involving 42 painters.

5 HOUR CONFERENCE FAILS TO END 20 DAY OLD MONTREAL TIEUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, P. Q., Jan. 9.—A conference lasting five hours today, which failed to produce any progress toward settling Montreal's 20 day old strike of 2,000 municipal white collar workers, dashed hopes that the city's paralyzed municipal services would be restored tomorrow.

The meeting was held in the provincial capital, Quebec City. Attending were members of the provincial cabinet and representatives of the Quebec municipal commission which controls the affairs of the city, and of the strikers' committee of nine. The meeting is to be resumed tomorrow.

REFUSED TO CUT OUTPUT, WORKER TELLS WLB PANEL

Muskegon, Mich., Jan. 9 (AP).—Anton F. Jankowsky, a lathe operator whose discharge has been demanded by the United Automobile Workers [AFL], told a war labor board panel investigating a dispute affecting the Norge division of Borg Warner corporation today he balked at the demand of a fellow worker that he cut his output from 35 to 13 pieces.

At the same time O. A. Shenstone, plant manager, testified he could reduce the personnel of the plant, located in an area designated by the war man power commission as one of "acute labor shortage," by 20 per cent if workers would operate their machines at capacity.

Union demands under consideration by the panel include dismissal of Jankowsky on charges that he deliberately damaged a machine in the plant and reinstatement of 41 men who left their jobs in protest against Jankowsky's continued employment. The union protested a management request for a WLB directive ordering time studies and new pay rates.

CHARGE WOMAN WITH MURDER IN DEATH OF CHILD

Wooster, O., Jan. 9 (AP).—Mrs. Mabel Louise Householder, 29 years old, was charged with first degree murder today in the smothering of her 22 month old daughter, Barbara Jeannette.

County Prosecutor Raymond O. Morgan said the child's death was discovered last Wednesday when the father, Merschel W. Householder, returned home from an Akron tire plant.

COP SUSPENDED AFTER SHOOTING BOY ON TROLLEY

The state's attorney's office yesterday entered the case of Policeman Bernard Sweeney, 50 years old, 4646 Wentworth avenue, who was arrested after the shooting of a 16 year old boy on a south side street car Saturday night.

Bernard Sweeney [top] and Dominick Rozich.

Sweeney was questioned at Stock Yards police station by Assistant State's Atty. Edmund Grant shortly after Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police, ordered Sweeney suspended.

The victim, Dominick Rozich, 3528 Wells street, was wounded seriously during an altercation between Sweeney and another street car passenger, Kenneth Krenzelak, 16, at 309 West 42d street. At Evangelical hospital it was found that Rozich has a bullet in his abdomen. His condition was described as "critical."

Charge Undetermined.

Grant, after questioning Sweeney and other witnesses, all passengers on the street car, said further investigation would be made to determine if the shot was fired willfully or accidentally. He said if evidence is found indicating it was willful, Sweeney may be prosecuted on a charge of assault with intent to kill—unless the boy dies. Should this happen, the charge would be more serious.

Also in custody were Krenzelak and John Hoffman, 52, of 308 West 43d street. Krenzelak is said to have been keeping company with Hoffman's daughter. The boy, because of his youth, was taken to the juvenile detention home.

Krenzelak Removed Coat.

Sweeney told Acting Capt. William Doyle that he, Krenzelak, and Hoffman boarded the street car at 63d street and that an argument began at once. It concerned "pushing and shoving," Sweeney said.

The dispute continued inside the car, the policeman related, and Krenzelak moved to swing at him but was restrained by Hoffman. Krenzelak then slipped out of his coat, leaving it in Hoffman's grasp, and struck the policeman, knocking him to the floor, Sweeney said.

"While I was lying on my left side on the floor," continued Sweeney, "I drew my revolver and fired at the floor. The bullet hit the steel on the side of a seat, ricocheted, and struck Dominick Rozich. He had nothing to do with the argument at all."

Still Exchange Shouts.

Sweeney, off duty at the time, was not in uniform.

Krenzelak said the argument arose over a discussion concerning a Negro street car conductor who was a passenger in the car. Sweeney argued in defense of the colored conductor, said Krenzelak, and the argument ended in blows. Sweeney withdrew to the rear of the car, Krenzelak related, but they still exchanged shouts. Finally, he said, a bullet passed by his head and struck Rozich.

The conductor of the street car, Anthony Perry, 835 Newport avenue, said he heard a shot and looked into the car's interior in time to see Sweeney, gun in hand, about to leave the car. Police said they found Sweeney at a police telephone box at the corner of Wentworth avenue and 47th street as he was about to summon help. Witnesses agreed that the shooting took place as the street car neared that corner.

Sweeney, assigned to the Chicago Lawn station, was held at the Stock Yards station, where an investigation was conducted behind closed doors. Capt. Prendergast said he would take no part in the investigation. He asserted it was in the hands of Acting Capt. Doyle and Supervising Capt. Andrew Barry.

The wounded boy is a sophomore at Tilden Technical High school and a part time grocery clerk. His father, Vinnie Rozich, is employed by the Chicago Surface Lines as a laborer.

There are two other children, Michael, 14, a freshman at Tilden, and Mary, 12, a grade school pupil.

SHOT TO DEATH; GUN AT SIDE.

Mrs. Agnes Berdich, 55 years old, was found dead yesterday on the floor in her home at 2353 Homan avenue, a bullet hole thru her heart and a revolver at her side.

LT. PETERSON, 62, QUITS POLICE AFTER CHARGE

Lt. Samuel Peterson of Stockyards station submitted his resignation yesterday to Police Commissioner Allman, effective today.

Peterson was suspended Wednesday on complaint of Miss Irene Rex, 32 years old, 4241 Halsted street, that he struck her. She said she fell to the sidewalk as a result, and that her skull was fractured.

The lieutenant, 62, returned to duty at midnight Saturday, and worked one shift, until 8 yesterday morning. Then he resigned.

This Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly

Needs No Cooking. Saves Money.

The surprise of your life is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money, and is amazing for quick results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a long time, and children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

20,000 LANDING CRAFT IN NAVY; 45,000 ON WAY

Invasion Dates Set, Says Undersecretary.

With the aid of manufacturers, shipbuilders, and workers, the navy has already produced 20,000 landing craft and is engaged in building 45,000 more, Undersecretary of the Navy James Forrestal disclosed here yesterday. He stressed the important part that these crafts will play in the forthcoming offensive of 1944.

Exclusive of ordnance, more than five billion dollars will be used for landing craft construction, he said. One out of every four dollars that the navy will expend in 1944 for ship construction of all types will go for such craft.

"Invasion dates have been set," he said. "American men are going to storm hostile shores, more difficult than any we have heretofore tackled.

Warns of Heavy Losses.

"Heavy casualties must be expected. However, the more landing craft we have on invasion day, the more power we can put in our punch, the more versatile our attack can be, and the lower the casualties will be in this most hazardous of military operations—the landing on a hostile shore in the face of a determined, experienced, well equipped enemy."

The total program of 65,000 landing craft embraces various types from 450 foot dock ships to amphibian tractors, he said. In addition, some 15,000 miscellaneous small craft, including rubber boats and rafts, are needed to complete the huge project.

"This landing craft program calls for the intelligence, skill, industry, brains, and brawn of some 4,000 prime contractors, 30,000 subcontractors, and their hundreds of thousands of employes," Forrestal said.

142 Motors in One LST.

He pointed out that into one LST—as the landing ship, tank, is officially known—go 142 separate electric motors, ranging from 50 horsepower down to those of fractional horsepower to operate galley equipment. In one LST there are 850 valves, some made of forged steel and others of various other metals.

Manufacturers of the myriad parts which go into a single craft are scattered thruout the nation.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

L. S. R. asks: "Can a registrant ask for more than one hearing before his local board?"

ANSWER: No. But if, after his hearing, the local board retains him in the 1-A classification, and some new evidence or situation needs to be called to the local board's attention, the registrant can put it in writing and send it in for consideration. If the board concludes the new evidence warrants reopening the classification, it may do so and it may also request the registrant or any one having information needed by the board to make a determination, to appear before the board.

F. L. E. asks: "Are the wages of members of the maritime service subject to attachment?"

ANSWER: Only in the instance of a court order for the support and maintenance of his wife and/or minor children. See Sect. 12 of the Act of March 4, 1915 [46 U. S. C. A. 601].

L. P. O. asks: "To what extent have the physical requirements been lowered in regard to those of us in 4-F because of hernias?"

ANSWER: It is reported that something in the neighborhood of 20,000 men in this service command will be reëxamined and the only inguinal hernias which again will be rejected are those which are inoperable or have descended into the scrotum.

S. W. T. asks: "Do I still have to have a written request from a man in the army overseas countersigned by his commanding officer before I can send him more than an 8 ounce package?"

ANSWER: The postal order requiring the endorsement of your commanding officer was rescinded about eight months ago. Now all one needs is a written request of the service man [army only—men in the navy, coast guards, and marines do not have to make any request] in an envelope bearing an A. P. O. number. Present this letter and envelope at the postoffice and the package will be accepted.

W. J. Z. asks: "Will a completed three year hitch in the National Guard from Oct. 26, 1937, to Oct. 26, 1940, entitle me to wear the good conduct medal if I was honorably discharged and have now served in the army for four months?"

ANSWER: It is our understanding that National Guard service will not count unless it was in active federal service. Changes, however, are under consideration but have not become official yet. Write to the Decorations and Awards Branch, Adjutant General's Office, Washington, D. C.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have poor digestion?	☐	☐
Do you feel headachy after eating?	☐	☐
Do you get sour or upset easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—lie sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25¢. You will be glad you did.

HOTELS ACCUSED OF BURNING TONS OF SCRAP PAPER

WPB Asks Hostelries' Aid in Salvage Drive.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Reports are being investigated that several large Chicago hotels have been burning tons of scrap paper regularly, despite the acute national shortage of waste paper stocks for the manufacture of vital war materials, W. M. Scanlan, director of salvage for the Chicago war production board office, said here yesterday.

"Altho the salvage of scrap is voluntary on the part of residents, business houses or hotels, the burning of paper is wanton wastefulness and unpatriotic at the present time," Scanlan said. "We are going to appeal to every member of the Chicago Hotel association to coöperate with the city in the new waste paper salvage program 100 per cent."

Army to Coöperate in Saving.

Rumors that vast quantities of waste paper were being burned daily at the Chicago quartermaster depot on Pershing road were denied yesterday by Capt. J. H. Burkhart, public relations officer. Certain papers that might betray the destination of shipments going abroad will continue to be destroyed under the watchful supervision of army officers, the captain explained.

Civic and church leaders yesterday urged residents to salvage scrap paper and prepare it for the city-wide, curbside collection Saturday. Gov. Green issued an order to all county commissioners and other state officers to clean out state files and contribute them to the waste paper campaign, George M. Eisenberg of Chicago and Walter V. McAdoo Jr. of Peoria, co-chairmen of the salvage committee for the Illinois war council, reported.

Churches Enlist in Campaign.

Bishop James A. Griffin of the Springfield diocese has requested all Catholic bishops to participate in the program and Msgr. David L. Scully of Springfield has undertaken the job of enlisting the support of Protestant and Jewish churches in the current campaign.

Much of the success of the waste paper salvage program depends upon school children, John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education, said yesterday.

ANTI-BUROCRACY PLANK PUT IN DRYS' PLATFORM

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9 (AP).—Claude A. Watson, the national Prohibition party's 1944 presidential nominee, gave this summary of his aims today in addressing a rally which launched his campaign:

Win the war as quickly as possible; eliminate the "crushing curse" of burocracy; write an enduring peace; sponsor legislation for rehabilitation of war victims at home and abroad; reduce taxes; follow "the Christian principles long advocated by the Prohibition party."

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Miss Claryce Hille, 2507 Hennepin avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.]

THE QUESTION.

What youthful fads were difficult to sell to your parents?

WHERE ASKED.

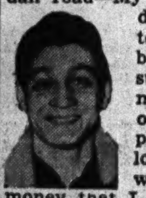
On Michigan avenue.

THE ANSWERS.

Dolores Steinberg, student, 2203 East 70th place—My mother goes to extremes to induce me to forget the dirty saddle shoe idea. The only time they were ever cleaned was when she cleaned them herself. When she grew tired of that she overlooked the habit, but she still objects to the big loose moccasins.

Rhoda Lee Findberg, student, 5814 Division street—After my mother goes to the trouble of selecting beautiful white silk blouses for me to wear to school she feels pretty hurt when I prefer to wear big plaid shirts. They're really boys' shirts and she objects most when we don't tuck in the shirt tails.

Robert H. Willens, student, 3624 Grenshaw street—Many of the young men in our classes at school have taken up smoking a pipe. My parents tried to discourage me by saying it was hard on my health and a habit for older men but now I almost have them convinced I can do a better job of concentrating on my school work.



Don Schlofsky, student, 4124 Sheridan road—My parents couldn't understand why I wanted to wear zoot suits. I bought several of the suits with my own money but they still objected to the surplus suit. The girls loved them tho, so it was worth all the money that I spent on them.

Lorraine Cassel, student, 15601 Lexington, Harvey—All the girls in school are decked out in that nice flashy costume jewelry but it was a big effort to convince my mother that it was good looking. She didn't like the way it jangled around and even now her ideas about it haven't changed much.

Sue Davidson, student, 5128 Hyde Park boulevard—It's such a foolish idea, my mother thinks, to wear sloppy Joe sweaters three sizes too large. She thinks pigtails are just as inappropriate, but after visiting school a few times she has decided she doesn't want me to be too conspicuous by not dressing like that once in a while.

STEAL CHEESE AND RADIO.

A quantity of cheese and a radio were taken from his home by burglars, Anthony Sirico, 1153 Taylor street, told police yesterday.

3 BEARS BATTLE AFTER A BIRTH IN RAILWAY CAR

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 9 (AP).—The Rock Island's Golden State Limited left for Los Angeles today carrying one jittery express messenger, five bears, and two problems for the Railway Express agency.

The train rolled in with two crates in the express car, each containing a pair of big brown bears headed for Hollywood and a movie career. During the brief stop one of the bears presented her mate with a cub. The mother became restless.

Stanley Beebe, Brooklyn, N. Y., the trainer and owner, took her spouse from the cage and tied him to the car door on a leash.

Messenger Protests.

"I'm sure not going out of here with that bear tied onto a piece of string," J. E. Panney of Kansas City, the messenger, protested. "I'm an express messenger, not a midwife to a bear."

His boss, T. E. Lowell, chief messenger for the division, agreed. So Beebe put the nervous papa in the other cage which already held two bears. Then the trouble really started—a free-for-all fight among three huge bears.

Twin Is Expected.

The ringside spectators cleared out. The cage held, tho, and the braver ones returned. The train pulled out after Beebe, Pinney, and Lowell held a conference and decided to go on with the surly passengers.

The second problem arose when Beebe said "there should be another youngster before long—brown bears usually are twins." Then the express company studied whether five or six bears should ride as cheaply as four.

All was quiet and peaceful as the train arrived at Pratt, Kas., 250 miles southwest of Kansas City, tonight. There were still just five bears.

Rock Island Yardmaster, Hit by Locomotive, Dies

John Earl Jones, 58 years old, a yardmaster employed by the Rock Island railroad, was fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by a locomotive near 123d street in Blue Island. He had lived at 2256 Florence street, in Blue Island.

BURGLARS SET APARTMENT AFIRE.

Burglars who stole clothing and silverware valued at $300 from the apartment of Mrs. Viola McCaffrey, 2324 West 111th street, set fire to the apartment before leaving, she told Morgan Park police. Firemen, summoned by neighbors, extinguished the blaze before it spread.

There is a serious shortage of fats. That's why our government has authorized your meat dealer to give you 4¢ and two meat ration points, free, for every pound of used fat you turn in. MEAT the yardstick of protein foods

ACCEPTED AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSN. Council on Foods

This Seal means that all nutritional statements made in this advertisement are acceptable to the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association.

Speaking to one of our food agency officials, a British Cabinet Officer said:

> "A lot of our people (civilians) look as though they are in very good shape. They are, but they don't have the vitality or staying power. They need more protein. You send us the meat and we will increase our war production 15 to 20 per cent."

Today proteins are the talk of the nutrition world.

The reason is: proteins are—

> Much of the substance we're made of.
> The material out of which children add new inches and pounds.
> The substance with which the human machine is kept up and repaired.

There is no way to get proteins except in the foods we eat. We need them constantly.

What's the difference between the best proteins and other proteins?

Proteins are made up of mysterious substances called "amino acids" (pronounced "a-mee-no"). And, by the way, they aren't "acids" as you usually think of acids.

Every protein food has its own special pattern of amino acids. No two are exactly the same.

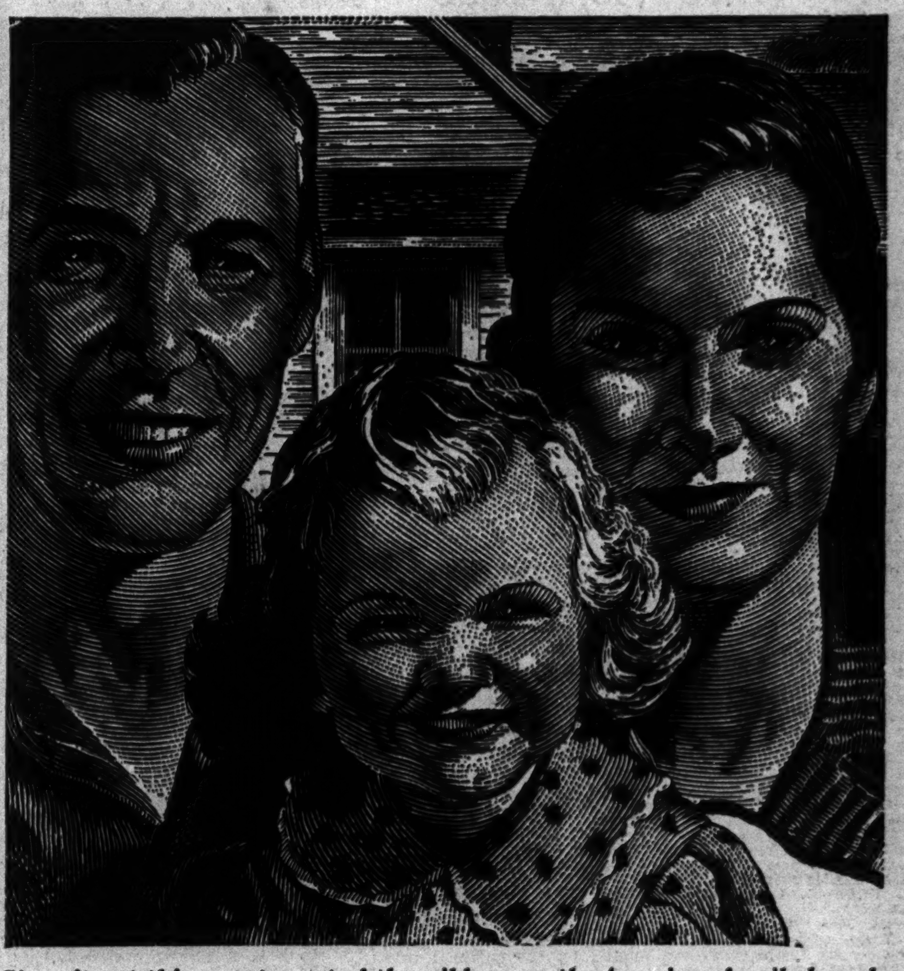
Of the 22 amino acids which occur in foods, there are 10 which are essential to keeping the human body going just right. That's because the body itself cannot manufacture these ten.

And that's why meat is such an amazing food. Nature's laboratories have concentrated in it a virtually perfect protein and have given it a flavor which has said "Come on and eat" to the human race since the Dawn of Eating.

That's why meat usually is regarded as "the yardstick of protein foods."

Meat is also an excellent source of essential B vitamins (thiamine, riboflavin, niacin) and contains important minerals (iron, copper, phosphorus).

All meats, regardless of kind, cuts, prices or point values, contain these essential nutrients.



Since it cut this country out of the wilderness, the American family has always reached for the true, the genuine and the virile . . . We were never a bland people . . . Our wives and mothers plan our meals around flavor—by preference the flavor of meat . . .

Extend the meat you get. Use low-point cuts. Combine them with other good protein foods—milk, poultry, fish, eggs and cheese. In any event, keep up on proteins.

NOW You get 2 brown points and 4c for every pound of waste fat. Your country needs it for ammunition. Turn it in!

BILLY'S CREDIT IS GOOD FOR ALL BLOOD HE NEEDS

Offers Pour In to Keep Texas Boy Alive.

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 9 (AP).—Billy Meers, living on borrowed blood, needn't worry about his credit.

At Baylor hospital here where Billy, now 4 years old, is getting daily blood plasma to keep him alive, the dwindling supply will be amply replenished by the offers pouring in from everywhere.

Billy, a handsome youngster with a toothy grin and big trusting eyes that crinkle at the corners, was making such a heavy drain on the hospital blood bank that a halt was to be called.

Needs Blood to Live.

The youngster is suffering from chronic nephritis, considered an incurable kidney ailment. Doctors said he may live indefinitely with constant blood plasma treatment.

Since September, Billy has drawn on the hospital blood bank for 227 pints, a drain that is exhausting the supply here. Hospital officials said he was 164 pints of blood in debt.

Response Is Immediate.

When hospital officials said it was not fair to the public to divert the entire blood supply to the youngster, his plight became known. Immediately offers came from many parts of the country, offers of nephritis sufferers who would donate actual blood of the same type; offers of plasma [it has no type]; offers of money.

Mrs. Charles Meers, Billy's mother, said she couldn't express her feeling of gratitude. "I didn't realize people could be so kind to someone they don't know."

Billy just smiles and hugs a toy locomotive in his hospital bed.

CHICAGO RESPONDS

The plight of 4 year old Billy Charles Meers of Seymour, Tex., yesterday evoked a great sympathetic response from readers of THE TRIBUNE, who called thruout the day to offer their blood for the child.

Among those moved by the child's need was Alvin Kopp, 28 years old, 6545 Union avenue. He has been rejected three times by the army because of a kidney condition. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cammiso, 3217 West 37th place, offered their blood. "We know how we would feel if it were our child," the father, a railroad brakeman, said.

Mrs. Mary Pappas, 1150 Huron street, declared her intention of wiring her offer to the baby's mother, Mrs. Charles Meers. "If necessary I'll go to Dallas," she said. Another volunteer was Mrs. Catherine Myrick, 5318 Kenwood avenue, who once suffered from a kidney ailment.

Red Cross Can't Help.

Several of the would-be donors said they would like to give their blood to the Red Cross if they knew it would be earmarked for the Dallas child. However, Ralph A. Bafer, director of the Chicago headquarters of the American Red Cross blood donor service, said this would be impossible because all blood given at the headquarters belongs to the army and navy. Another suggested that the County hospital might aid, but its spokesman said that this was not feasible because of a lack of equipment and an overwhelming demand for plasma by its own patients.

It was explained by Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, that kidney ailments may result in an enormous loss of protein, which is replaced either by diet or transfusion.

WOMAN RECLUSE IS FOUND DEAD AMID ANTIQUES

Behind graying walls of an old frame dwelling at 842 North Franklin street, built after the Chicago fire in 1871, police yesterday found its aged owner dead beside an old kitchen range in a spotlessly clean kitchen. The adjoining rooms were filled with marble topped brass tables, elaborate wicker furniture and walls adorned with tintypes and pictures three quarters of a century old.

The range was cold as the fire had died out. Miss Alvine Thomas, 78 years old, daughter of the carpenter who had rebuilt his home after he and his family were driven by the fire to the lake front for safety, had been dead several days. Her body was discovered after police broke into the home when Mrs. Ann Guthardt of Hubbard Woods, a distant relative who visited her weekly, said her knockings on the door had met with no response.

1850 Bible on Table.

Police found Miss Thomas lying in the kitchen near a white scrubbed pine top table, the only article her family had salvaged from the fire. Atop the table was a worn leather-covered bible printed in 1850. It was her confirmation gift, police were told.

The living room walls were adorned with embroidered sampler mottoes, yellowing photographs of long-dead relatives, and an old picture of Pickett's Last Charge. Beside it hung a framed lithograph of a World's Columbian Exposition scene taken from the art supplement of THE TRIBUNE in 1893.

Was Last of Family.

Miss Thomas was the last survivor of her family. A brother, Julius, a well known waiter at several clubs in Chicago's horse and buggy days, for whom she kept house, died two years ago.

The house in which Miss Thomas died was built on the site of the home in which she was born. With the passing of years, the character of the neighborhood changed, giving way to factories and warehouses but Miss Thomas refused to move. She had several windows boarded up to keep out the winter's cold and left the house only to obtain her groceries and a daily paper.

Mrs. Guthardt said last night that efforts were being made to notify 12 nephews and nieces of Miss Thomas' deceased sister, living in Iowa and Michigan, before final funeral arrangements are made. Her body was taken to an undertaking parlor at 1253 North Clark street.

CONCLUSION.

Dr. Seneca stayed two days in the park and then left Neal to nurse the convalescents. Cad Clemson was a suave and smiling host. He realized that his day was done as dictator at Rustlers' gap. Moreover, he had lost most of his following. The hard-pressed homesteaders, who had done some rustling on the side to feed their families no longer would support him. They were relying on the pact of peace.

Tho Neal knew Cad for a bad lot, he found it amusing to listen to the lame little villain explain himself as an honest man. Clemson had a fund of entertaining stories of his experiences, and in the hours when Neal was not with the patients he enjoyed sitting on the porch and listening to the carefully censored experiences of the old scoundrel. The outlaw knew he was not fooling the owner of the K-B in the least, but it was his theory that if he worked hard enough at whitewashing his past some of his brush work would stick.

It was two weeks before Neal got back to the K-B with Tim. Before he had been there an hour he saddled a fresh horse and rode across to the Triangle R. Eleanor was in her smartest clothes, and if she was very, very humble, as she had promised to be, there was no external evidence of it. She came to meet Neal, lightfooted and gay, an eager sparkle in her eyes, the light of gifts in them that no other man would ever see.

He held her off from him a moment to look at the face he loved. "My girl?" he asked.

"For ever and ever," she told him.

It was a good many minutes later that they came back to connected speech again. Austin was away from home, she explained, calling on Janet. "A school director has so many things to talk over with a new teacher," she explained, her face crinkling to laughter.

"I can understand that, when the teacher is Janet," he agreed.

"Once I was afraid you understood too well how pleasant it was to talk things over with her," she confessed. "I had to buckle on my armor and go to war. I'm lucky I started before you became the hero of the valley."

"Now look here," he warned. "I won't have any of that kind of talk."

"Not after this one time," she promised. "But I am happy because everybody I meet thinks now you are the top man in our district. I dont hear any more about how wild and undependable you are—about how you gamble and make friends of outlaws and fight at any opportunity." She made a mocking little moue. "I think you could go to congress if you would acquire the statesman's manner and not tilt your disreputable hat so impudently on one side of your head."

"I'll have to tilt it a little more if it will keep me from such a fate," he smiled.

She fell serious. "I think I fell in love with you for the very recklessness people used to deplore," she confided. "When I have you in mind—and that is very often, sir—sometimes a snatch of verse jumps to my mind, written, I believe, by Sir Walter Raleigh, the night before he was executed.

"Cowards fear to die,
But courage stout,
Rather than live in snuff
Will be put out."

If you want to know just how I feel about you——"

He did not, along that particular line. It made him feel a little foolish. So he stopped her with a kiss.

The end.

2 North Shore Engagements Are Revealed

BY JUDITH CASS.

AT a cocktail party at noon yesterday in their Lake Forest home, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Muzzy announced the engagement of Mrs. Muzzy's daughter, Miss Shirley Hopkins, to Ensign Walter Jennings Taylor, son of Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Henry C. Taylor of New York. Ensign Taylor was present to receive the congratulations of his fiancée's family friends. He is an instructor at the naval reserve midshipman's school at Northwestern university.

Miss Hopkins, daughter of the late Farley Hopkins, and granddaughter of James M. Hopkins, was graduated from Miss Walker's school in Simsbury, Conn., and was introduced to society during the Christmas holidays of 1941. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league. Ensign Taylor attended Yale university. Mr. Muzzy and the former Mrs. Farley Hopkins were married last October.

At a small family dinner at home in Winnetka on Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon G. Taylor announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Elliott, to Lt. [j. g.] George B. Everitt Jr., son of Mrs. Everitt of Winnetka. Sometime later in the month, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will give a small tea for their daughter and her fiance.

Miss Taylor is a graduate of Northwestern university. Lt. Everitt is a graduate of Duke university.

Wedding News.

Both Lt. Everitt and his sister, Miss Mary Lois Everitt, will be among the attendants at the wedding of Miss Frances Fisher to Aviation Cadet Harry William Bottomley on Jan. 29, when Miss Everitt will be maid of honor. Cadet Bottomley, who will receive his commission as lieutenant in the army air force engineers at Yale university on Jan. 27, will arrive in Chicago the following day, in time for the bridal dinner which the Charles W. Fishers will give for their daughter and her fiancé in the Woman's Athletic club. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 p. m. on Jan. 29 in the lounge of the club. Cadet Bottomley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Bottomley, are coming from Winona, Minn., for the festivities.

Colyer of Pasadena, Cal., will take place about 4:30 p. m. next Saturday in the Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth, with a reception following at the Georgian hotel.

Mrs. Eugene Bruce of Pasadena will be matron of honor and Mr. Bruce best man. Miss Patty Pulfer of Winnetka will be maid of honor. As the bridegroom is not arriving until a few hours before the wedding, the Palenskes will give a family breakfast on Saturday at the Georgian hotel instead of a bridal dinner. Neither Mrs. Colyer nor her daughter, Mrs. Charles Rook III., also of Pasadena, will be able to come for the wedding. Lt. Colyer and his bride will live in Mineral Wells, Tex., near his post at Camp Wolters.

Thru the Looking Glass

We asked a young friend of ours to analyze, as best she could, her contentment with life in the women's army corps. Here's what she said:

"All your life you're going to do things to improve your figure, your mind, your organization of your own life. You never get around to it. In the army you get around to it—you'd darned well better—and all of a sudden you find that you like it.

"You always planned to start exercising so you'd have a perfect figure, but you never did. Six weeks of basic and you discover that your posture is well on its way to being perfect. What's more, you know why—and you find, to your own surprise, that you like exercise. You were always going to walk with your toes gripping the ground, sit and stand straight—and in the army you find yourself doing just that and liking it.

"You'd always planned to be perfectly groomed—to have every single stitch you owned in perfect condition all the time, to be clean and well mended, with your hands and hair and skin groomed 24 hours a day. You never were, of course. There was a safety pin hidden on the torn strap of your slip; you never got the run down heels to the shoemaker quite in time; you waited a day too long to have your hair shampooed. And maybe no one noticed these things, but you knew they were wrong and your poise was pierced. In the army inspection sees to it that you're clean, that your clothes are clean, well mended, well brushed. After a bit you get the habit of being perfectly groomed, day in and day out, and pretty soon you realize that peace of mind about appearance has been achieved at last—and you love it!

"Then, you've always planned to study, to learn something. But you never did. In the army—the women's army—you do and it's far more stimulating than anything you've tackled since you were small fry.

"You're healthier than you ever were before, better organized in every detail of your daily life, personal and army—and I think that's one reason WACs like their life. They may not realize it, but the little dissatisfactions, born of putting things off, are done away with—and it's a grand and glorious feeling."

It's one woman soldier's viewpoint—and we find it interesting.

Gilbert and Sullivan Troupe Returns with 'The Mikado'

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Altho it has dropped the Boston label for more forthright description of its wares, and has a few new singers, not much has changed with R. H. Burnside's Gilbert and Sullivan troupe since it played the Studebaker twice in 1943. Last night's "The Mikado" again was to the matchless D'Oyly Carte production as the San Carlo Opera is to a front rank company putting its best foot forward—a routined touring troupe which skips the fine points of stage direction and décor, and puts its faith in a few veterans, a musical director who knows his business and insists on being boss, and a chorus considered to have done its full duty when it sings lustily and loudly in a preoccupied pattern of stylized gestures.

But Gilbert and Sullivan is sturdy stuff and "The Mikado" remains a good show for Mr. Burnside as "Aida" remains a good show for Fortune Gallo, tho I must say for Mr. Gallo that he merely dropped "Madame Butterfly" in war time, while Mr. Burnside has rewritten the subtly poison-tipped "we are gentlemen of Japan" to the sledgehammer tune of calling them gangsters. Considering the atrocities in makeup committed by the male choristers, Gilbert's original line was sardonic anticipation of Pearl Harbor.

I doubt very much that Florenz Ames approves of that coy meddling with a masterpiece, for Mr. Ames is something of a stickler for the Gilbert and Sullivan style. He makes gay little departures into the sidelines of his own nonsense, but they are in Gilbertian character, set to Sullivan's measures. His Ko Ko is an alert little comedian with the flawless mosaic of the patter songs at the tip of his ready tongue, and his manner with an audience is ingratiatingly confidential without once crossing that intangible line that means stepping out of character.

Robert Eckles has the rotund beige boredom for a capital Pooh Bah, tho he seemed a bit tired last night, while Bertram Peacock was back as a competent Pish Tush, Robert Pitkin cavorted as the Mikado, and Catherine Judah raised her contralto in the lamentations of Katisha. The most important newcomers were Kathleen Roche, with a pretty voice and what might be a pretty face if she would expunge one set of eyebrows before painting on another, and Allen Stewart, whose Nanki Poo sang the music pleasantly enough but played hob with the dialog.

"The Mikado" will be repeated tonight, and "Cox and Box" and "Pinafore" take over Tuesday's bill. The company will present 10 productions during its stay of five or six weeks.

"THE MIKADO."

1,200 at Dinner Open Hebrew College Drive

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Nearly 1,200 persons, including notable scholars, rabbis, business and manufacturing leaders, attended a dinner at the Hotel Sherman last night to celebrate the 22d anniversary of the founding of the Hebrew Theological college, 3448 Douglas boulevard, and to open a million dollar endowment campaign.

The college is one of two Orthodox institutions in the country, and it was explained that with European seminaries of Jewish learning closed by war, Jewish studies and traditions will almost wholly depend on America for perpetuation for many years to come. Louis Ets Hokin, secretary of the endowment fund, announced that $163,363 had been contributed before the drive officially opened, and without solicitation.

Allen B. Gellman, head of manufacturing concerns in Elgin, Batavia, and Chicago, was chairman of the dinner, with Chaplain Max A. Braude, an alumnus of the college, master of ceremonies. Chaplain Braude is the registrar of the chaplains' school at Harvard university, and was introduced as one of four chaplains holding the rank of major. Ten members of the college's alumni body are now serving as chaplains.

Congratulations to the school from the national Jewish community were presented by Frank L. Weil, of New York, president of the National Jewish Welfare board, and an officer of the national board of the United Service organization. Rabbi Saul Silber, president, announced that the college will offer degrees of bachelor and master of Hebrew literature, in addition to ordination.

Leaders of the endowment campaign include Max Cohen, Barney Balaban, John Balaban, Samuel J. Cohen, Alex Eisenstein, Rabbi Efraim Epstein, Michael Gidwittz, Max Goldberg, Nathan Goldblatt, Morris Hershman, Samuel Katz, William Lavin, Charles Pozin, Joseph Rolnick, Isadore Shalowitz, Milton Silverstein, Frank Wallen, and Harold Weinstein.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

The Busy Bee.

i think that I shall never see a steno busy as a bee

a steno typing all the day who never dreams her time away

a gal whose errors are so rare t'would be a shock to find one there and one who ne'er is late or tardy or absent as her health is hardy poems are made by stenos like me

Training White Collar Employes.

The National Industrial conference board has published a report on training white collar employes in five large companies. Thruout all five training programs, emphasis is placed on knowing your company, knowing your merchandise, knowing your customer, and knowing yourself, even to asking "How'm I doin?"

Where direct selling to the customer is involved the trend is to do away with stilted phrases. One of the department stores included in this study urges the saleswomen to "break down the habit of using the inevitable and stereotyped "May I help you?" As a service greeting a pleasant "Good morning" or "Good afternoon" or an inquiry, "What may I show you?" is suggested. A selling philosophy that appreciates the customer's point of view is stressed in another department store considered in the report. And, in this store an excellent training method accompanies class room studies. It is the appointment in each department of a "sponsor" who is informed of each new employe, who introduces her to other members of the department, and invites her to lunch the first day.

The industrial conference board is led to this conclusion: "Employes are trained every day in every business organization, whether or not the management realizes it. . . . In some organizations the only semblance of an educational program is the haphazard daily relationships between supervisors and workers in which employes learn by absorption—a process so uncontrolled that they may easily absorb what is incorrect and inefficient. More and more company managements are realizing the desirability of making their training positive rather than negative."

Who Won?

On that bet that a stenographer cannot read the keyboard of her typewriter correctly, the test characters are:

*—Sometimes called a star, really an asterisk as most typists know.

&—Commonly called an "and sign" but really an ampersand as many stenographers know.

/—Usually called a "bar," a "diagonal," or "fraction sign" but really a solidus as almost nobody knows.

Violin Prodigy, Now 15, Shows Maturing Art

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Patricia Travers, who has been appearing at Orchestra hall since she was a prodigious mite in socks and hair ribbons, returned yesterday afternoon as a poised violinist of 15, to play a taxing program with the invaluable assistance of Hendrik Endt at the piano. She is stepping composedly from the instinctive brilliance of gifted childhood into a future soundly based on clean technique, a simplicity of style that has direction and sometimes breadth, and a tone of good size and color which can take on the imperious upthrust expected of a virtuoso. Her playing needs only the reinforcement of maturity, and Patricia is growing up as fast as she can.

Yesterday's performance cut a wide swath and was at its best in passages of clean cut display. The finale of the Bach Sonata for unaccompanied violin, for instance, was superbly played, with shining clarity and style. The opening of Vieuxtemps' Concerto in D minor had the suggestion of the grand style, of necessity invoked by such music, and the scherzo was flawless. The more glittering passages of the Paganini sonatas were deftly projected, and there were unexpected gleams of versatility in her playing of the Heifetz arrangements of three Gershwin preludes, particularly in the haunting minor cadence of the second, and in her skill with Stravinsky's circus venture, the gayly pompous polka composed for one of Ringling's young elephants.

By comparison, Schubert's Rondo Brilliant was no more than adequately played, and Ravel's Tzigane was less than that, because it scorns every approach except the quicksilver magic of utter virtuosity. But tho the Vieuxtemps adagio lacked the authority of fully satisfying performance, no one who heard it could fail to admire the young player's purity of tone and the serene clarity of her remarkable trills.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 9.—Lionel Barrymore says that he has taken so much vitamin B, his hair has turned from gray to brown. Now you tell one! . . . Katherine Brush is here writing her first original screen play, "Redheaded Woman in Washington." She swears she's going to take her hair down while doing it. It's red, too. . . . Jack Douglas, the pig peddling papa, left with mama for New York to do his broadcasting. . . . The play, "Lamb Is My Body," by Pvt. Francis Key, is provoking a tempest of offers. the story lampoons both Dorothy Thompson and Clare Luce. A screen mogul and a Hollywood producer are doing handsprings to get it. . . . I wonder when our boys are going to get around to "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee." With song titles being used for pictures, this one seems made to order. . . . Maxie Rosenbloom says crooning "I Couldn't Sleep a Wink Last Night" has cured him of insomnia.

Horses, Horses.

Metro bought King Charles, the horse Elizabeth Taylor has been learning to jump on for "National Velvet." There was quite a to-do over its sale. The owner made certain demands but Elizabeth was eager to have the horse and finally got her way. In the meantime, Joe Pasternak gave Elizabeth a year old palomino. She promptly named it Prince. . . . Whatever happened to the race horse Louis Mayer gave Mickey Rooney? . . . I asked for a medal for Lassie. Comes a wire she's getting one from Alice Manchester, president of the Greenwich Humane league. She feels Lassie's entitled to an award because her performance in "Lassie Come Home" has done more to encourage good treatment of animals than any other action this last year. I suppose when I see Lassie, she'll growl her thanks.

Best Seller.

The first run-off of Gene Fowler's "Goodnight Sweet Prince" was 75,000 copies, and they're going like hotcakes. It's beautifully done. I don't believe Elaine Barry and her mother will enjoy the chapter about them. Anyway, Jack's friends hope they won't. . . . Imagine Albert Spalding checking his fiddle to join the office of war information. . . . Well, well, Mary Pickford has another radio deal on the fire. Whatever happened to her Pickfair party when the stars were all there waiting to go on and at the last minute were afraid to. . . . Ned Sparks is off to New York and a play with George Marion. I hope it's good. He's a funny guy. . . . Ann Harding lost her maid, but the maid wanted to linger on and rent the room she occupied.

He Said It!

My fan letter: "War has brought us many terrifying things. It's sometimes difficult to find any good coming out of it, but some good was developed when Gary Cooper sang [??]. Mr. Cooper's singing has given me an idea for a team which might be arranged to tour camps, tho I shudder to think what the effect might be on our fighting forces. There is a certain lady who sang 'Leave Us Face It' a couple of weeks ago. If Mr. Cooper and the lady teamed up. Wow! If anything comes of this outrageous idea, just say a guy named Joe suggested it." . . . Frances Gifford gets her first break with Lana Turner and John Hodiak in "Marriage Is a Private Affair," which has to be postponed. Lana has the flu. . . . Frances and Benny Thau act as tho they were rehearsing for an altar march. . . . Lt. Eddie Albert sure got himself a girl—Dr. Margaret Chung from San Francisco. He's showing her the town. . . . R-K-O has picked out a nice title for Jean Arthur's next—"One Girl in a Million." Deanna Durbin had "100 Men and a Girl," so Jean will be far ahead of her. . . . Ho hum. Warners are waiting for the Screen Actors guild to apologize. They'll have a long wait.

'Clock Strikes Twelve'

By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.)

BLUEPRINTS MISSING.

Mr. James Paradine leaned forward and took up the telephone receiver. Birleton had not yet adopted the dial system. He waited for the exchange to speak, and then asked for a personal call to Mr. Elliot Wray at the Victoria hotel. The table at which he sat was a large and handsome piece of furniture carried out in mahogany, with a crimson leather top. All the furniture in the room was large and handsome. A crimson carpet covered the floor. Heavy curtains of the same warm shade were drawn across the windows. Above the black marble mantelpiece hung a life size portrait of the late Mrs. Paradine, a fair, spacious lady in ruby velvet and diamonds—a great many diamonds. In spite of them she managed to give the impression of having been a kind, house-wifely sort of person.

A massive gilt clock beneath the portrait gave out four chiming strokes and then struck the hour of seven. As the last stroke died, there was a crackling in the receiver, a girl's voice from the exchange said "Your call" and immediately upon that Elliot Wray was heard to say "Hello!"

James Paradine said:

"That you, Wray? James Paradine speaking. I want to see you. Here. At once. Something's happened."

At the other end of the line Elliot Wray's heart turned over. He took a moment, and said:

"Is anything wrong?"

In spite of the control there was something that made old James Paradine smile grimly as he said:

"Wrong enough. But it's business—nothing personal."

"I'm dining with the Moffats, sir."

"You'll have to cut it out."

Elliot Wray stood frowning with the receiver at his ear. James Paradine was Robert Moffat's partner, head of the Paradine-Moffat Works. He wouldn't make him break a dinner engagement, and a New Year's dinner at that, unless the matter was urgent. He said:

"All right, sir, I'll come out."

James Paradine said, "All right," and hung up.

The River House was three miles out of Birleton—four miles from the hotel. Allowing for the black-out, it would take Elliot all of 20 minutes to get there.

He went over to the door and switched off the two brilliant ceiling lights, and then, crossing the dark room, passed between the heavy curtains. The curtains ran straight across in continuation of the wall, but behind them was a deep bay with windows to right and left and a glass door in the middle. Mr. Paradine turned a key, opened the door, and stood upon the threshold looking out. Two shallow steps gave upon a wide terrace. Presently he turned the watch on his wrist. He could read the dial easily. He came back thru the room, and put on the lights.

Exactly three minutes later Elliot Wray walked in, his face set hard, his fair hair ruffled, and his eyes as cold as ice. He had not known how much he would mind coming into the house until he got there. As far as he was concerned Phyllida was dead. He hadn't known till he came into the River House how her ghost could walk—all the way up the stair beside him whispering.

He shut the door and came over to the far side of the writing table, every bit of him taut with protest.

"What is it, sir?"

"You'd better sit down," Paradine said. "Those blueprints have disappeared."

"What?"

James Paradine nodded slightly.

"They're gone," he said.

"How can they have gone?" Elliot straightened up and stepped back a pace. "I left them with you this afternoon."

"Precisely. Cadogan sent you up with them yesterday. Bob Moffat, Frank, and I had a session over them. After a further session you left them with me this afternoon at three o'clock, and at six-thirty I discovered that they were missing. I think you will agree that your dinner engagement must go by the board. I have told Bob Moffat that I am keeping you on business. The prints are gone, but we shall get them back. This is a family matter, and I propose to deal with it in my own way. In order that I may do so I shall require you to stay here tonight. Your old room is ready for you."

"No, sir—I can't do that."

"You propose to go back to Cadogan and tell him that the prints have gone?"

The two pairs of eyes met, both bright, and hard, and angry.

Elliot spoke first.

"You said it was a family matter. Will you explain that?"

"I am about to do so. You handed me the prints at three-thirty in my office at the works. I left at a quarter past four. During that three-quarters of an hour the prints were inside an attache case on my office table, and the room was never occupied. I myself left it three times. On the first occasion I was away for about five minutes. You will remember that I walked along the corridor with you, and that we met Brown, the works manager, who wanted a word with me. During that time my secretary, Albert Pearson, was in the office. When I got back I sent him to Bob Moffat with some figures which he had asked for. Shortly after that my stepson, Frank Ambrose, came in with my nephew, Mark Paradine. I was away for about a quarter of an hour whilst they were there. When I came back Frank had gone and Mark was just leaving. Lastly, my other nephew, Richard Paradine, looked in, and I asked him to stay whilst I went and washed my hands. He did so. When I came back I took the attache case and drove out here. At half past six I opened the case and discovered that the blueprints were missing."

"Your secretary, Pearson?" Elliot said.

James Paradine's fine black eyebrows rose.

"You didn't know that he was a cousin? A distant one, but kin is kin. No, it's all in the family, and I propose to deal with it in the family. That is why I am including you."

Elliot stiffened noticeably.

"I'm afraid I can't claim——" he began, and was met with a curt:

"That's enough about that! Don't ride your high horse with me! You'll do as I say, and for the simple reason that we've got to get the prints back, and I suppose you don't want a scandal any more than I do."

"Aren't you rather jumping to conclusions, sir? After all, the case must have been here in the house for a couple of hours. What about the servants?"

James Paradine leaned back. He laid his hands together fingertip to fingertip and he said in a quiet, ordinary tone:

"I'm afraid not, my dear Elliot. You see, I know who took the prints."

This Mystery's Bound to Keep You Guessing

"THE UNKNOWN GUEST."

A Monogram picture, directed by Kurt Neuman, featuring Victor Jory and Pamela Blake, and presented at the Garrick.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

Suspense is sharply sustained in this mystery thriller.

Most of the action occurs in the Happy Hunting Lodge, a lonely inn.

Here, as the picture opens, you see the miserly, crotchety proprietor, Joe Williams, and his wife, Martha, preparing to close the place for the winter and take their usual unexciting vacation at the usual unexciting place . . . Julie, a village girl who works for them, asks for a loan of $10. It's refused when she admits she wants it to buy pretties for a dance. . . . She goes away.

Returning next morning to ask once more for the desired money, she finds her employers absent—and, asleep in her bedroom, a dark and saturnine man who, when awakened by her yelp, informs her that he is the Williams' nephew and has been put in charge of the lodge for the period of their absence. . . .

Julie, mystified and worried, nevertheless agrees to come back to work—"NO WASHING!"—and "Chuck" gives her an advance on her pay. . . .

Almost immediately strange happenings start. . . . The time has come, "Dear Audience," for you to play sleuth.

WHO is the "nephew"? . . . Who are the two men who come—looking for a man? . . . Where are the owners of the lodge?

W-w-what does Chuck really do when he SAYS he's fixing spigots—and the like—in the cellar?

ME tell? Not Me!

See you tomorrow.

William Jensen of Kelvyn Park High school will receive the first cash award of $25 for his paper, "Effect of Common Stimulants on Plants." 2 Women Show Their Skill in Piano Recitals

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

At Kimball hall yesterday afternoon, Laura Stroud embarked on the brave, not to say heroic, venture of playing three recitals of the piano music of Johannes Brahms. The remaining concerts in the series will be on Feb. 20 and March 19.

The arch enemy of every such project as Miss Stroud's is monotony, and it cannot be said that the recitalist was uniformly successful in routing this foe. Her style appears to be fundamentally an intimate one, and as such was on secure ground in the A flat and B flat intermezzi of Opus 76. These were tonally pleasant and were interpreted with a just, if not profound, perception of the reflectiveness which was a dominant characteristic of Brahms' nature. They also were not as taxing technically as the two capriccios of this opus, which sometimes took the pianist's measure.

But vigor and long spanned structure are equally a part of the Brahms esthetic, and it was in the first sonata, a derivative and well padded early work, that Miss Stroud's shortcomings were most apparent. Monotony resulted from the lack of genuine brilliance and strong rhythmical impulse. The concluding two rhapsodies of Opus 79 found her at her best, intelligent and correct, but not very exciting.

Most musicians these days will agree that Schumann has had his day as a composer. But occasionally a pianist, singer or conductor turns up to recapture momentarily the meaning and romance that Schumann held for the 19th century. This happened at Ilse Maren's piano recital at Curtiss hall yesterday afternoon when she played the entire set of Fantasy Pieces. She found in these once immensely popular morceaux a dusted off fragrance and a naive ebullience that were grateful to both audience and pianist. Before that she had played Bach's C minor Fantasy with nervous angularity, subsiding into a stylistically appropriate account of Mozart's E flat sonata, which would have been improved by a more expert use of the pedal.

Visiting Nurses Curtail Plans for Annual Party

Instead of its usual large tea, the Visiting Nurse Association of Chicago has announced that its annual meeting this year will be a brief business session at 4 p. m. on Wednesday, Jan. 19, in the offices at 104 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, president, explained that the association is understaffed and did not feel justified in bringing even a few of the nurses from the districts for the usual party. There is to be an election of officers at the meeting, and the president's and treasurer's reports will be heard.

The custom of carrying lunch to work has spread to the white collar group. Thousands of war plant workers have been carrying lunches for a long time, but office workers were slow to take up the custom.

That they have done so now is the result of several factors: Restaurants are packed; service is slow; food is not always up to its pre-war standards. Frequently it is necessary to gulp down one's lunch in order to get back to the office in time.

Many a harried office worker waits impatiently for lunch, with one eye on the clock and fingernails drumming nervously on the table. It would be better for his disposition to bring a packed lunch from home.

An adequate lunch includes something hot. In some offices it is possible to brew coffee or tea or to obtain it from a near-by lunchroom. Vacuum containers for coffee or hot soup are a valuable commodity these days.

A packed lunch should consist of more than sandwiches. Salad greens, wrapped in damp paper or cloth, will keep fresh for several hours, and dressing for them may be carried in a small bottle. Such foods as mixed fruit or vegetable salad, baked beans, and puddings may be carried in covered jars. Dried fruit, such as figs or dates, is filling and nutritious.

Ideally, a packed lunch would include these foods:

1. Meat, fish, cheese, egg or nuts to provide protein. Examples: Meat or salmon loaf sandwiches, sliced cheese, deviled eggs, peanut butter and pickle sandwiches.
2. A breadstuff. Enriched white bread, whole wheat, rye, nut bread are possibilities.
3. A vegetable. Carrot sticks, celery, a salad of some kind, or a hot vegetable soup.
4. Fruit. Oranges, bananas, apples, grapes are easy to carry.
5. Something sweet, even tho it's only a piece of candy.
6. Something to drink. Milk is probably the best beverage from a dietary point of view.

Whats more, most office workers who now carry their lunches find that they save money as well as time and nerves.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. T. H., Gary, Ind.—My older children do most of our family ironing but children are careless—even the best of 'em—and my ironing cover would get scorched on occasions. So I tacked some asbestos paper to end of ironing board—and now I don't have to change covers so often.

Ruth G., Oak Park—Don't throw away any old leather gloves. My boys gather up all the soft leather gloves which are ready for the discard and use them for polishing the chromium plating on the car.

Mrs. Thomas H., Chicago—I use a razor blade to rip seams, etc., when sewing, and I make it "safe" by slipping one edge of it into a slit in a sizable cork. The cork can also be used as a handle.

'Going Steady' in High School; What About It?

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

On the SOLID side

Move in closer for a little hot chatter. We'd like to get some inside information on a current problem that always brings out heated pros and cons. No one can really answer it except those coo-some twosomes, those particular jills and jacksons who like to do their dating in exclusive pairs. It's the old question of "going steady" in high school and it comes up again for a once-over-lightly. Here's what one character, a mother of a steady Hedy, has to say. And after you read this letter, we'd like to know what you think.

She writes:

"It seems to be the thing now for these teen-agers to be keeping so-called steady company when they meet one boy or girl they like better than the rest."

"My daughter is now going steady and this kind of affair has become sort of a problem in our home. I wonder if you are as much against it as I am. I believe girls of 16 should not limit themselves to any one boy, but should go out with all the boys and have a good time. There is time for these serious love affairs a little later in life. Don't you think so?"

Well, don't you think so? Or do you? That's the whole question. Should fellows and girls go steady in high school if they really like each other? Or why do gals and guys go steady in the first place? Is it because some girls want to keep a firm hold on any available tall, dark, and handy they can get these days? Is it just a matter of convenience?

Do fellows ask a certain girl to be their one-and-only just because in some high schools "everybody's doing it"? Does it affect sincerity in friendship or are most of such blissful pairing-offs based on honest feeling? Or are most of the honey-chillen just biding time till the right thing comes along?

If you've got anything to say on the subject, we'd like to hear about it 'cause it's got a lot of smooth characters puzzled. There are a few letters on hand and we'd like to print the others as they come in. So think it over and then snow your opinions our way—we'd like to get the drift.

Mrs. Donald F. McPherson is chairman for the booth, at which a different national group will serve every day thru February. The Ukrainian unit will start the bond sales today. All national groups will wear costumes and give programs.

A second project of the women's division also is getting under way today in the tearoom of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. Known as "unconquerable nations programs," the daily teas, directed by Dr. William W. Sweet of the University of Chicago, will feature readings of poems by Joseph Auslander about national groups which have been victims of Nazi aggression.

Lt. Comdr. Mary Martha Heck, one of five navy nurses in the United States to hold that rank, was detached this week from her duties as chief nurse at the hospital at Great Lakes Naval Training station to take over a European command.

Comdr. Heck has been a navy nurse since 1918. Her duties have taken her to many places, including Haiti, Pearl Harbor, Guam, Canacoa, P. I., China, Japan, and the Canal Zone. Her last station, before assignment to Great Lakes in December, 1942, was at Quantico, Va. She was commissioned lieutenant commander on July 1, 1943.

Comdr. Heck is scheduled to leave immediately for her European post. Her successor at Great Lakes has not been named.

Two Chicago women will be among the approximately 100 who will be graduated by the naval training station for WAVES, 2200 Lawrence avenue, at ceremonies at 8:30 p. m. tonight in the Berry Memorial Methodist church hall, 4750 North Leavitt street.

Magdalene Bassinas, 4906 Wentworth avenue, and Caroline Muril Haase, 11111 Avenue M, are the Chicagoans in the class. The WAVES, trained in maintenance and repair of all types of aircraft instruments, will be assigned to naval air stations thruout the nation.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

Many bids which at first thought seem quite logical are, on deeper consideration, far too speculative. For example:

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ J 7 4
♥ K 8
♦ K Q 10 9 7 4

WEST
♠ A Q 9 5
♥ J 6 4 3 2

EAST
♥ A 10 9 5

SOUTH
♠ K 10 8 6 3
♥ Q 7
♦ A J 8
♣ A 5 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 Spade	Pass	2 diamonds	3 clubs
3 diamonds	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

West led the club three and declarer won with the ace. On a low trump lead toward dummy West put up the queen and led the club deuce. East won and led a third round of clubs, forcing dummy to ruff. Now when the spade jack went to West's ace and East was put in with a heart, another club return established West's nine of trumps as a sure winner. Result, down 500.

Now let's take a look at the bidding that led to this needless penalty.

No comment is required on any bid up to North's three spade call. Until then everyone was on safe ground. The danger began for North-South when North, not satisfied with a less than game contract, gave a belated raise to his partner's major suit. North reasoned [he later explained] that if South had only a four card spade suit he would go back to diamonds, thus asking for further confirmation of spade support before committing himself to a four spade contract. In that event, North would pass to four diamonds. What North overlooked was that South might easily hold a five card suit and be spurred into a try for game because he would look to North for substantial values. North regarded South's raise of diamonds as evidence that the hands fit very well. This was one of those cases, however, in which the responder [North] should be far less optimistic over a raise of his suit than he would have reason to be if the opener made a voluntary rebid, unassisted, of his own major suit.

New Creations Win a Big Hand for Designers

BY REA SEEGER.

American designers rate a big round of applause because, in the midst of destruction and confusion, they are working to preserve the tradition of fine workmanship and encouraging creative employment of beautiful fabric and color. Altho the midwinter fashion shows of cruise and resort fashions are a thin shadow of their former lush glory, the designers have made them collections worthy of sincere appreciation.

These collections, now on parade, represent the newest ideas in clothes and accessories and foretell what will be smart, wearable, and figure flattering next spring and summer. New cottons in slim silhouettes, using the minimum of materials, ration sleeves, exposed backlines, and short skirts with the interesting new back flare—all march past the reviewing stand of shoppers.

You will see brand new, utterly sleeveless sweaters, to be worn with dramatizing bracelets high on the arm; new shawls, quite frankly lifted from the shoulders of Mexican senoritas, and high colored hand crocheted shawls, to be worn with swim suit or with short evening dress.

You'll approve of the clever new cotton suits and street clothes, tailored expertly in childlike simplicity; dresses of chambray, madras and gingham, and versatile jumper dresses in cotton twill, gabardine, or soft summer woolens. These jumper dresses possess a most obliging quality [especially the dark toned models], doubling as daytime outfits with long sleeved blouses and later as party dresses minus the blouse with one of the triangular crocheted shawls. See these midwinter collections now on parade, if you want a lift for both your wardrobe and spirits.

Today marks the opening of the second New York Dress Institute fashion show. America's top flight fashion designers hold a concentrated show for the fashion writers, staged with all the fanfare and dramatics of a Paris seasonal opening. It runs for the next ten days.

Sally Requests Instruments for Men in Service

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Perhaps some reader can help Mrs. J., who writes:

"Dear Miss Brown:

"My son who is over in Italy with the army has asked me to purchase a harmonica for him. I have tried everywhere, but have been unable to obtain one. Do you suppose any of your readers has a discarded one which I could have?"

Another reader has a similar request:

"My son has asked me to try to locate a jew's harp and a harmonica for the boys in his camp. I have tried all the musical shops and even the pawn shops but have been unsuccessful so far and wonder if any of your readers might have either of these instruments. Mrs. G." This woman's son is also overseas with the navy.

A soldier, stationed near Chicago, who has seen overseas action, would be most appreciative if any reader has a saxophone or a clarinet which he could have. Because of enemy action, he lost all his possessions while overseas, including a saxophone. He does not have sufficient money now to buy another and would be grateful if any reader has one he no longer needs.

From Mrs. X.:

"Dear Miss Brown:

"Three years ago, you were good enough to obtain a transformation for me. It is now worn out, and unless I can obtain another, it will be necessary for me to confine myself to the house. As you may recall, I have been afflicted with a rare skin disease which resulted in the loss of my hair. I would be eternally grateful if any of your readers could help me." Mrs. X. has blonde coloring.

BULLA, DODSON TIE FOR LEAD IN LOS ANGELES

Chicagoan's 70 Gives Him 210 Total.

[Picture on next page.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9 (AP).—The tension of three days of intensive competition finally caught up today with Sammy Byrd, and the one time New York Yankee outfielder yielded the lead in the $12,500 Los Angeles golf tournament to Johnny Bulla of Chicago and Leonard Dodson of LaJolla, Cal.

Sammy, with a 137 behind him for the first half of the 72 hole grind, blew up today and took a 75, four over par.

Bulla, now an air lines pilot operating between Atlanta and Chicago, came up with a 70, while Dodson, many times a contender but never there at the finish, also was one under par. These two headed the pack of 60 scheduled to start out tomorrow on the final 18 holes. Their 54 hole total was 210.

Craig Wood Threatens.

Near the front was the duration champion, Craig Wood of New York, whose remarkable 67 was the best performance of the day, and Byron Nelson of Toledo, whose par 71 gave him a 211 to start the closing round, even with Wood. Wood established himself as a contender for the $4,375 in war bonds that goes with first place.

Dodson might have led the pack except for missing two putts that stuck on the lip of the cup. He played in a threesome with Byrd and George Fazzio of Pine Valley, N. J., who finished with 213.

Crowd Sets Record.

Byrd slipped to a third place tie with Philadelphia's Jug McSpaden and host Pro Olin Dutra, with 212s. A crowd of 12,000, largest in the history of the Los Angeles Open followed the field, and most of the spectators got behind Byrd and Dodson as they turned for home.

Byrd's trouble really started on the 11th hole, where he was trapped, chipped up nicely, and then blew an easy putt.

Leading scores follow:

A 'MONEY' SKATER

Frank Jelich of West Allis, Wis., was second here as the skaters rounded the turn in the first heat of the senior men's 440 yard race in the C. Y. O. Tri-State meet in Garfield park yesterday, but he came in first when it really counted—in the finals. Leading at the turn is Art Winkler, C. Y. O. skater, at left. Trailing, to the right, is Marshall Klemundt of the C. Y. O. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

PEIRCE SEEKING TROPHY AGAIN

Enters Team of 110 in Silver Skates.

Team entries from Peirce playground, defending the silver cup for the largest number of contestants participating in Silver Skates in 1943, and from the Champaign-Urbana Skating club were among the scores received yesterday for the 27th Derbies sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities. The preliminaries and finals in the eight age classes will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Garfield park lagoon.

This is the last day entries will be accepted and all letters must be postmarked before midnight to be included in the lists which go to the printer Wednesday evening. Trials in all age classes for skaters under 16 years old will be held Saturday. Preliminaries in the four older classes will be held Sunday starting at 1 p. m. and will be followed by the semi-finals in all the Derbies and the championships.

Martin Moves Up a Class.

John Martin and Jim De Swarte seek the senior Silver Skates for the Champaign-Urbana club. They are among the outstanding skaters in the state. Martin won the boys' intermediate championship last year and altho he still is only 17 years of age he must advance to the senior division because no champion is permitted to defend his title. Fifteen skaters in all classes will represent Champaign-Urbana.

Fred Gohl, instructor at Peirce playground, had entered a team of 76 boys and 34 girls in the races. Peirce always has a high percentage of entries report for the trials and if this is true again this week, the playground probably will retain its silver cup for the largest number of contestants.

Smith Leads Peirce Entries.

Bernie Smith, who has had a spectacular season in coming from novice rating to class A, is considered the best of the Peirce skaters in the senior division. Other outstanding Peirce contestants for the 48 major awards in the eight Derbies are June Olson, Nadine Hanson, and Polly Schlimmer, junior girls; Dick Bass and Fred Gross, junior boys; Robert Murray and Tom Cerny, juvenile boys; Karl Aldrin, midget boys, and Roy Parker, intermediate boys. Parker won the 1943 junior Silver Skates championship and now has been forced to move to the intermediate class.

Among the park and playground teams tabulated yesterday were:

Chicago Municipal Playgrounds.

Adams playground, Moran playground, Byrne playground, and State Athletic field.

Board of Education Playgrounds.

Brentano playground, Nash playground, Fiske playground, Morse playground, Kedvale-Hirsch playground, and Ryerson playground.

Notice of acceptance of entry will not be sent. Skaters in the boys' midget, juvenile, and junior Derbies, and girls' junior Derby, will report between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. Saturday at Garfield park for their racing numbers. All others will report Sunday between 10 a. m. and noon.

Five Championships Shared in Tri-State Skating Meet

Five of the 10 classes of the Tri-State championship races held yesterday in Garfield park under the auspices of the Catholic Youth organization finished with two or more skaters sharing the titles after some of the finest exhibitions of skating in several years. The C. Y. O. team again took top honors with 390 points.

George Fischer of the Northwest Skating club and John Martin of the Champaign-Urbana club each won one race in the intermediate boys' class, which has been the most hotly contested division all season, to share honors in that group. Fischer won the 440 yard event and Martin the three-quarter mile race.

Tom Tilden of Glen Ellyn won the one-sixth mile race and Scotty Wallace came in first in the 440 to tie for the title in the juvenile boys' class.

Laser, Henry Share Honors.

Top honors in the junior boys' division were shared by Don Laser of the C. Y. O. and Ken Henry of the George F. Barrett Athletic club, the former winning the 440 yard event and the latter the half mile race.

Tardiness cost Luetta Du Mez the chance to repeat as intermediate girls' champion when she was late reporting and therefore omitted from the 440. She won the half mile, however, without much trouble. The title was shared by Marian Laise of the C. Y. O. and Rita Janet of the Northwest Skating club.

A three-way tie developed in the juvenile girls' division with Joan Murphy and Barbara Meyer, both of Glen Ellyn, and Betty Taft of the Champaign-Urbana club sharing honors.

Jelich Tops Senior Men.

Senior men's honors went to Frank Jelich of West Allis, Wis., who totaled 80 points by winning both the mile and 440 yard events and placing second in the 880.

The final sessions of the speed skating schools sponsored by the Chicago Sports association, which have greatly increased the participation in the midget, juvenile and junior class races, are scheduled tonight and tomorrow. The coaches will be at Peirce playground tonight and at Mozart park tomorrow night for the final session.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 9 (AP).—The Chicago Blackhawks suffered their sixth defeat in a row and their 10th consecutive loss on the road when Detroit's Redwings handed them a 4 to 2 setback tonight before a crowd of 11,192. Detroit's victory enabled the Redwings to take sole possession of fourth place in the National Hockey league standings. Prior to the game the Hawks and the Wings had been tied for that position.

The Redwings spoiled the return to the Chicago nets of Goalie Mike Karakas.

The Hawks, who haven't won on Detroit ice in six games since 1940, overcame a two goal lead on a pair of shots by Doug Bentley, the tie coming early in the third period. But Detroit then scored two goals 58 seconds apart to clinch the decision.

Detroit Scores Twice.

The winning goal was a 50 footer fired by Defenseman Hal Jackson, his third major league score. Syd Howe then dribbled in another to put Detroit farther out of reach.

Detroit's first two goals were by Mud Bruneteau, his 20th of the season, and Carl Liscombe. Both were set up by Center Murray Armstrong, who joined the club a week ago after receiving a medical discharge from the Canadian army.

The 32 year old Karakas, whom the Hawks once discarded but last week purchased back from Providence of the American league, kicked out 32 shots, twice as many as the veteran Normie Smith handled in the Detroit cage.

Hollett Plays with Wings.

The Detroit defense was bolstered by Bill [Flash] Hollett, acquired in a trade with Boston. He reported just before Detroit took the ice.

The Blackhawks have one more engagement on the road before returning home next Sunday night to meet the league leading Montreal Canadiens. Before that they will move into New York Thursday night for a game with the Rangers.

BRUINS TO LOSE BILL COWLEY WITH INJURY

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 9 (AP).—Bill Cowley, leading scorer in the National Hockey league, probably will be lost to the Boston Bruins for at least four to five weeks.

The 30 year old star suffered a shoulder separation when he was slammed into the boards during the third period of last night's Toronto-Boston game. An X-ray examination disclosed the injury.

In 25 games so far Cowley has collected 52 points on 19 goals and 33 assists and seemed certain to break the modern scoring record of 73 points set by Cooney Weiland of Boston in 1929-'30 and equalled last year by Doug Bentley of the Chicago Blackhawks.

Howard's Barging On Is 1st in Vera Cruz Handicap

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9 (AP).—C. S. Howard's Barging On, ridden by Victor Bovine, leading jockey, won the $2,000 added Vera Cruz Handicap today at the Hipodromo de las Americas race track. The 5-year-old Howard horse paid 36.50, 13.50, and 11.50 pesos per 5-peso minimum ticket.

Gloves Facts

THE schedule of Golden Gloves events in the 17th tournament sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., follows:

SOUTH SIDE TOURNAMENT—Open and novice divisions, Jan. 31 and Feb. 1, St. Sabina gymnasium, 78th street and Racine avenue.

NORTH SIDE TOURNAMENT—Open and novice divisions, Feb. 2, 3, and 4, Loyola gymnasium, Loyola avenue and Sheridan road.

CHICAGO CHAMPIONSHIP—Feb. 14, Marigold Gardens, Grace and Broadway. Novice and open division winners from the south side will meet the novice and open division winners from the north side.

TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS—Feb. 28, 29, and March 1, Chicago Stadium, 1800 West Madison street.

FINALS—March 10, Chicago Stadium.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the first call for Chicago's Golden Gloves boxers.

All amateur boxers in the metropolitan area who wish to enter the 17th annual tournaments sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., now may register for the north and south side trials. Winners of these tournaments then will meet for the Chicago city championships on Feb. 14.

The Chicago tournaments, as usual, will be held in two classes, novice and open. The latter is for experienced amateur boxers and the winners in the city title tournament will represent Chicago in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium on Feb. 28, 29, and March 1.

Novices on Marigold Card.

The novice boxers will win sectional honors. These winners will meet in the Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace, for the city titles on the same program with the open division boxers. This furnishes a complete card of 16 championship fights for Feb. 14. The novices, of course, are not eligible for the Tournament of Champions.

Many amateur boxers have entered the service, but Golden Gloves, this year as last, will benefit from the competition now being held at camps and bases. Several teams already have entered the tournaments in various sections of the midwest and south which qualify for the Tournament of Champions.

The Amateur Athletic union, which sanctions all Golden Gloves tournaments, permits a boy to box when he has reached the age of 16. These younger boys of 16 and 17 may have a better chance than ever to win a golden glove. They probably will not dominate the matches, however, as has been shown by recent bouts in Chicago and in other midwestern cities.

300 Enter Cleveland Tourney.

Camp Grant, Ill., sent a team to the Tournament of Champions last year. In Chicago, such organizations as the Madison Athletic club, Savoy A. C., and the Catholic Youth organization will have entries in the sectional trials.

Preparations for the Tournament of Champions are being completed in 25 cities thruout the midwest and south. Three hundred boys have entered the Cleveland tournament sponsored by the Plain Dealer. Preliminaries there will be held on Jan. 27, 28, and Feb. 1 with championship bouts scheduled on Feb. 4.

Qualifying trials in eight cities in Texas now are under way leading to the state tournament in Fort Worth, Tex., annually sponsored by the Star-Telegram of that city.

South Side Tourney Jan. 31, Feb. 1.

Chicago's south side tournament, both novice and open divisions, will be held in the St. Sabina gymnasium, 78th street and Racine avenue, on Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. The north side tournament, in both divisions, will be held in the Loyola university gymnasium, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue, on Feb. 2, 3, and 4.

Two rings will be used for the Stadium bouts on the first two nights but the quarter-finals in all weight classes will be held in one ring on March 1.

In these three days, the field will be reduced to 32 boxers who will return to Chicago on March 10 for the semi-finals and championship bouts. The 17th annual intercity Golden Gloves tournament will be held in New York City this year.

Each boxer, who enters the open or novice tournament in Chicago, will receive a souvenir medal. The

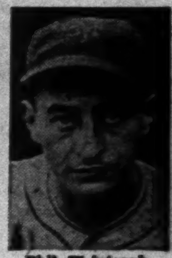
In the WAKE of the NEWS

[While Arch Ward is on his vacation, the Wake will be prepared by members of the sports staff.]

THE NEW YORK YANKEES showed a marked improvement in night performance last season. . . . Altho they have no lighting plant of their own, they topped the league with seven victories and five defeats after dark. . . . In 1942 the Yanks won only four of their 11 night engagements, the Browns being tops that season with a 16-7 showing. . . . The five regulars on the University of Detroit basketball team were members of last year's all-city scholastic quintet. . . . The University of Kentucky has lost only seven of 168 home basketball games in the past 12 seasons. . . . Herb Pennock instructs his Philly scouts to look for players who are "big, rangy, and raw-boned—no midgets." . . . Ray Benge, former big league pitcher, is tossing hand grenades in the Solomons. . . . Eddie Butke, Washington first baseman, is a policeman in Canonsburg, Pa., during the off-season. . . . It may be the lively puck in hockey this season, but the records to date, with the season just half over, show that shutouts in the National league are as scarce as thick steaks. . . . Up to Dec. 30, Bill Durnan, Montreal's brilliant goal keeper, had registered the only whitewashing job. . . . Just to show it was no fluke, Bill applied the brush to our Blackhawks to open the new year, but the goal-less nights still are something to talk about. . . . In 1939-'40, for example, Dave Kerr of the New York Rangers compiled eight shutouts to top the circuit; Earl Robertson of the Americans and Frankie Brimsek of Boston had six apiece, and Turk Broda of Toronto came up with four. . . . High scoring basketball games or dizzy governmental figures have no effect on Coach Bill Chandler of the Marquette quintet. . . . Chandler is a participant in a four year old bridge feud in which each side has scored more than a million points with a spread of only a few thousand points between them. . . .

Don Peden.



Phil Weintraub.

Don Peden, director of athletics and football coach at Ohio university, has retired to his Iowa farm to stay until the war ends. . . . Five outfielders had perfect fielding records in the American league last season but none was a regular. . . . Slats Gill, Oregon State basketball coach, makes leather wristwatch straps and presents them to his friends. . . . Six years ago the Giants released First Baseman Phil Weintraub because they said he was too slow. . . . Now they're buying him back thru the draft for $7,500. . . . When the recent Kansas City-Oklahoma City Golden Gloves matches ended in a 4-all draw, Kansas City, the host, awarded the team trophy to the visitors anyway. . . . A report which should be denied: Henry Armstrong is planning still another comeback.

Life Line.

Make this one resolve for the year just begun,
For no one could do any better:
Resolve that the service girl or boy
Shall never be short of a letter.

As time goes by, we sort o' become
Used to having them gone,
We're apt to slip up on the very one thing
They're depending the most upon.

I've been told that if we could see just once
The look on some lonely lad's face
When mail call finds him empty-handed,
Nothing would ever erase

The memory of that poor kid's gloom,
The bewilderment that he knows,
Has he so soon been forgotten?
From the looks of things that's how it goes.

Never mind the cake or the candy—
They can do without those somehow,
But their life line is your letters—
So, how about writing one now?

Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

CANADIENS BEAT RANGERS, 6 TO 5, FOR 9TH IN ROW

Last Place New York Puts Up Battle.

New York, Jan. 9 (AP).—The Montreal Canadiens extended their National Hockey league winning streak to nine games tonight by whipping the New York Rangers, 6 to 5, but they won only after a struggle that looked more like a playoff tussle than a midseason clash between the league's first and last place clubs.

Three goals down in the middle of the first period, the Rangers thrilled a crowd of 15,303 with a comeback that three times put them within a goal of the league leading Canadiens before they finally were forced to accept their fifth straight defeat and their 20th in 25 games. It was Montreal's 20th victory and the second over the Rangers in a week-end home-and-home series.

Dutch Hiller, veteran winger who was obtained from Montreal just before the season started, was the outstanding performer. He scored three goals and assisted on another, but Ott Heller, another old timer, was equally important to the Rangers. Shifted from his defense post to center, Ott made the plays for the last two New York goals.

For the Canadiens, Murph Chamberlain and Ray Getliffe each rang up two goals with Getliffe also drawing an assist. Lineups:

St. Philip's Fives Defeat St. Patrick

The St. Philip juniors and seniors won their second victories in the Catholic High School Basketball league yesterday, the former beating St. Patrick, 42 to 18, and the seniors winning, 39 to 32, at St. Patrick.

The senior game was played out under protest by St. Patrick. In the fourth quarter Ray Jennings, St. Patrick forward, threw the ball in from out of bounds. It struck a St. Philip player and Jennings recovered it and flipped in a field goal which was not allowed.

The De La Salle quintets split with Joliet at De La Salle, the seniors trailing at the half, 15 to 8, but getting the decision, 26 to 25. The Loyola seniors also had to come from behind at half time to win from St. Ignatius, 35 to 30, Ed Kelly setting the pace with 15 points.

The Mount Carmel seniors won their second assignment by beating St. Rita, 50 to 19, Frank Lake contributing six field goals and three free throws. The home juniors made it two in a row, 25 to 24.

Weber took a double header from St. George in the north section last night at Weber, the juniors winning, 39 to 34, and the seniors 46 to 36.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Leonard Dodson of Kansas City (left) and Johnny Bulla were tied yesterday after 54 holes of play in the Los Angeles Open golf tournament with each posting a 210 total. Dodson and Bulla, thru their performances yesterday, thus displaced Sammy Byrd, former New York Yankee outfielder, as the tournament pace setter.

Hakoahs Gain Rare Victory Over Spartas

BY OFFSIDE.

Local soccer yesterday was confined to two games, the Slovaks beating the Italians, 3 to 2, in the opening match played in the Sparta stadium, and the Hakoah-Centers, registering their first victory over the Spartas in several years, 5 to 4, in the second contest.

The Vikings' game with the Schwabens, set for Winnemac park stadium, was called off because the Schwabens were unable to muster enough players.

The Sparta-Hakoah game was highlighted by the performance of Pete Matevich, who scored all four goals for the Spartas.

Matevich Starts Scoring.

After Matevich opened the scoring Hakoahs came back to take the lead with goals netted by Max Perlman and Henry Kuhn. Matevich tied it up, but the Hakoahs added two more by the Maxies, Grunner and Kessner, to lead at the interval, 4 to 2.

The Spartas reduced the Hakoahs' lead as the second period started. Matevich booting into the net from 15 yards with a rocket drive. Kessner beat Joe Silovsky, who was having an uncomfortable day, a few minutes later.

Spartas' forwards were weak in front of the goal with Jimmy Wolf absent and a rearranged front line. Their attempts to score were ably stopped by Willie Stein, playing a sound game in the goal for the Hakoahs.

Winning Goal Deflected Into Net.

The final and winning goal came near the finish when a drive by Kessner was deflected into the net past Silovsky, after striking Emil Sterbas' leg close to the goal line.

The victory will stir up interest for the Hakoahs' supporters when they meet the Schwabens in the National Amateur cup battle two weeks from now in the Sparta stadium.

Next Sunday in the Winnemac park stadium, Foster avenue and Leavitt street, the Spartas and Vikings will meet in a second round game of the National Challenge series.

SIMMONS MEETS JAMES TONIGHT IN THIRD MATCH

Tommy James, 1942 Chicago sectional Golden Gloves welterweight champion, and Robert Simmons, 1941 Indianapolis sectional Golden Gloves lightweight title holder, each of whom has beaten the other in previous bouts, will renew their rivalry in a third match of 12 rounds in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

James is the choice to win this rubber match off his showing against Bob in their first match when he knocked out Simmons in the fifth round in the Marigold outdoor arena last June 28. Fans will not be surprised, tho, if Simmons is returned the winner since he was awarded a decision over Tommy in an eight round rematch, also in the outdoor club on the north side on July 19.

First Bout of Year.

James will be making his 1944 debut, while Simmons will be making his second start of the new year. Last Monday Bob scored an impressive victory over Jackie Armitage in Pittsburgh.

In his last appearance, Tommy lost a hard fight with Sgt. Lou Woods, tho he floored the noncom from Camp Grant three times.

Other Matches.

The supporting lineup this evening will include three contests of four rounds, and one of six. These follow:

Willie Moon, Chicago, vs. Matt Powell, Detroit, 135 [4]; Mickey McKiness, St. Charles, Ill., vs. Bishop Murphy, Chicago, 165 [4]; Vic Soyko, Milwaukee, vs. Eddie [Kid] Carson, Chicago, 142 [4]; Bill Parsons, Danville, Ill., vs. Jimmy Hunt, Chicago, 150 [6].

The match is scheduled for one hour. Flash Gordon is paired with Senor Moctezuma, Kid Chapman with Ivan Kalmikoff, and Joe Maich with Paul Miller.

PRO BASKETBALL.

3 PREP FOOTBALL RULES CHANGED BY COMMITTEE

Three changes were approved in the nation's 1944 high school football code at the annual meeting of the national interscholastic football committee yesterday in the Morrison hotel, Secretary H. V. Porter of the organization announced.

The committee ruled that when a free kick does not cross the receiver's restraining line and is not touched by a receiver the kick will be made again after enforcement of a five yard penalty. According to the past rule, the kick was made again but there was no distance penalty.

Along the same line, various freak free kick situations also were acted upon. For instance, Porter pointed out, a team cannot legally fake a kick from one side of the field, and then at the last minute toss the ball across to the other sideline to make the actual attempt from there.

After the ball is once placed for a free kick, it must be carried thru from that point.

Clarify Pass Rule.

The rule related to encroachment on the neutral zone, offside and delaying the game was revised to read, "between the time the neutral zone is established and the time of the snap of the ball, no player shall be in or beyond this zone in such way as to [1] touch an opponent, [2] delay the snap, or [3] cause an opponent to charge." As a result, the only time a double offside can occur is when a member of each team charges simultaneously.

The third shift in the rules states the handling of the ball forward to an eligible player anywhere behind the line is not to be considered a forward pass, but rather a lateral, making it a free ball in case of a fumble. This applies only to handed passes, however, and not to those which travel thru the air. Formerly, if the ball was handed forward to an end, it was necessary for him to be at least a yard behind the line for the pass to be termed a lateral.

No Change in Touch Rules.

Other committee action pertained to provisions in the kicking rules. One which received considerable attention was a proposal to kill the ball immediately when a kick touches anything on or behind the receiver's goal line, even tho a new impulse may have been added. No final action was taken.

No changes were made in the six man and touch football rules except such revisions necessary to keep these regulations in harmony with those authorized for the regulation game in 1944.

New Baseball League Will Open in Ohio

Columbus, O., Jan. 9 (AP).—Formation of the class D Ohio State Baseball league—first new circuit since the war erased 32 minor wheels—appeared certain today, altho major league clubs seemed more interested than the member cities.

Representatives of five Ohio towns—Springfield, Middletown, Lima, Zanesville, and Newark—appeared for a meeting upon invitation of Joe Donnelly, president of the league which folded after the 1941 campaign.

But eight major league clubs, each looking for a farm for its 4-F and 17 year old talent, were represented and the five towns had no trouble picking up a big league connection.

Springfield, formerly in the Mid-Atlantic league, definitely signed a working agreement with the New York Giants, represented by Carl Hubbell, Marty Purtell, Frank Rickey, and Jack Schwarz.

George Toporcer, head of the Boston Red Sox farms, headed for Middleton after the meeting to look over facilities before signing a contract with that club. Ed Gilliland, president of the Toledo club of the American association and representative of the St. Louis Browns, was ready to reach an agreement with Lima; Branch Rickey Jr. of the Brooklyn Dodgers said everything was favorable for a Dodger-Zanesville tieup, and Bill McCorry and Lee Allen of Cincinnati said the Reds probably would place a farm club at Newark.

FEED SHORTAGE BLAMED IN HOG MARKET CHAOS

Warn Big Supplies Won't Continue.

Back of the chaotic marketing conditions in hogs and eggs, of which experts say there is only a temporary abundance, stands the big question of the feed supply, trade, farm, and government interests agreed yesterday. How efficiently the reduced feed supply this year is utilized will determine how well the American public will eat later this year.

There is "not enough feed to go around," these informed sources said. All expressed concern over whether the number of live stock and poultry could be brought into balance with the available feed supply in time to prevent a shortage of meat, eggs, milk, and butter this year.

Calls Meat Supply Misleading.

The public should not be misled into believing that the present apparent abundance of meat will continue, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, said. There is not enough feed in relation to live stock, he said, and at present the farmers are liquidating.

This is normally a heavy marketing season, particularly heavy this year because of the increased hog production, farm bureau officials said. The selling of live stock on the farm means the animals are not being replaced and may mean less meat later.

Frank Boling, vice chairman of the Feed Industry council, raised the question whether the heavy marketing of hogs at present constituted liquidation — whether live stock is being reduced at a proper rate to bring the number in balance with the feed supply.

Cull Low Producers.

"In poultry, government and industry have worked out a program to cull the low producers," he said. "It is estimated there are 50 million more birds in the laying flocks than there were in January a year ago. We are trying to have the number culled to the number of a year ago."

Because packing centers are flooded with hogs, this program cannot be adapted to hogs, he said. When the heavy runs abate, possibly in two months, a program to cull runts and slow growing animals will be started.

Hog slaughter in 1943 was estimated at 107,745,000 head, compared with 91,384,000 in 1942 by Mark W. Pickell, editor of the Grain and Livestock Herald, but about 87,762,000 remained on the farms Jan. 1, compared with 73,660,000 at the start of 1943. He proposed ending pork rationing so the pig population will not eat too deeply into the feed reserves.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press quoted poultry leaders in many parts of the country predicting an acute egg famine before the end of the year if prices of eggs continue to decline while feed and labor costs rise. Eastern and middle west farmers were reported selling their flocks because ceiling prices did not cover production costs.

ODT Finds 942 Trucks Idle, Lacking Drivers, in 3 States

The office of defense transportation in Chicago said yesterday that a survey showed 6.1 per cent of common motor carriers in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin to be idle because of a lack of drivers, and that Col. Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois selective service director, has urged all state draft boards to give serious consideration to the war-essential status of trucking company employes.

The survey was made by the ODT, the bureau of motor carriers of the interstate commerce commission, and the war man power commission. Among 753 for-hire motor carriers in the three states, 942 out of 15,360 trucks, or 6.1 per cent, were not being used because of the driver shortage. The federal agencies warned that continued drafting of trucking employes would hamper operations seriously.

Many Drivers Face Draft.

The idle trucks represent a total monthly truck days loss of 25,212, or a loss in the movement of essential freight equivalent to 250,000 tons a month, Thomas A. Snyder, assistant ODT director, said. The survey further disclosed that the 753 carriers employed 14,899 driver, of whom 4,847 had been ordered to report for induction or had been classified 1-A.

"Continuance of such a loss will mean that 32 per cent of present drivers will be lost to the industry," Snyder said. "The carriers also reported employment of 1,747 mechanics, of whom 497, or 28.4 per cent, are either inducted or about to be called, and employment of 739 terminal managers, shop and dock foremen, of whom 29 per cent have been inducted or classified 1-A."

Situation Termed Critical.

Early last month Snyder became alarmed by the fact that only 10 per cent of the truck operators had filed essential worker, or 42-A, forms for their employes together with replacement schedules, and called a meeting of operators and draft officials to discuss deferment procedure. The situation was described as "critical."

Col. Armstrong's directive to the draft boards mentioned that truck operators do not blame the selective service system, but "acknowledge their own shortcomings." Snyder asserted that "the fact remains, however, that they are now faced with insufficient help and no prospects of replacements."

World Money Plans Rapped by Economist

New York, Jan. 9 (AP).—The National Bureau of Economic Research, a private organization, condemned today as "needlessly complicated" the British and American plans for post-war international currency stabilization.

The two plans are predicated on stable conditions, the bureau said, and have not taken into full consideration the probability that highly chaotic conditions may exist in international money after the war.

Moreover, it appears to this group that the so-called world monetary plans call for no safeguards against allowing the United States to become the unlimited creditor among nations.

Essentially Credit Plans.

In a report written by J. H. Riddle, economic advisor to the Bankers Trust Company of New York and consultant on financial research for the bureau, it was pointed out that the two plans were generally similar and that they are essentially credit rather than clearing mechanisms, as originally labelled.

Both the British plan authored by John Maynard Keynes for an international clearing union and the United States treasury plan for an international stabilization fund [known as the White plan] were recognized by the bureau as "efforts toward greater international coöperation in monetary matters."

Chaos Held Unavoidable.

However, these plans are drafted for use in a stable world, the report said, adding "the greatest war in history cannot help leaving in its wake a condition approaching the chaotic, especially for the continental European countries."

As an alternative to the plans, Riddle suggested that the so-called "key country" approach to stabilization might meet the needs of the post-war period more adequately.

This approach, said Riddle, involves stabilizing some of the leading currencies as a nucleus for general stabilization. It would allow nations to work out their monetary problems one by one "with first emphasis on remedying the basic causes of disequilibrium in each country."

Says Britain Needs Aid.

"The first step in the key country approach would be to stabilize the dollar-sterling rate," Riddle said. "Because of blocked sterling balances and a heavy adverse balance of payments, England will need substantial financial aid in dealing with her exchange problems—perhaps 5 or 6 billion dollars—but the need is for long term loans rather than short term stabilization credits."

Instead of speeding necessary fiscal and economic reforms, Riddle said, the Keynes or White plans might actually postpone them, with the result that some countries might be carried for years without attaining internal political and economic stability.

"It will no doubt devolve upon the United States to supply most of the credits in any stabilization plan, but our contributions will be more effective if safeguarded against wasteful and unsound use," he said.

POSTPONED DEPRECIATION.

In 1935 I inherited a tract of land. For at least 12 years no depreciation has been taken on the fencing, and now it needs a great deal of repairing. May I now take depreciation on this fence for the past years of my ownership. If not the full amount, what percentage could be taken? L. T.

Answer: The depreciation deduction may not be postponed and then doubled up in a later year. The deduction may be taken only against income for the year in which the depreciation occurred. You are entitled, however, to file a claim for a refund of excess taxes paid in years still coming within the statute of limitations. Such claims may be filed within three years from the time the return for the taxable year was filed, or within two years of the payment of the excessive tax, whichever period expires later.

DIRECTORS BACK MAGUIRE IN PIPE LINE PROXY ROW

New York, Jan. 9 (AP).—Seven directors of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company [Mokan] announced today they had sent letters to stockholders urging them to stand by the company's present management, headed by William G. Maguire, president.

The directors—Hubert E. Howard, Ira L. Letts, Charles E. Main, Geoffrey R. Mellor, John R. Perry, William G. Tringham, and Winslow B. Van De Vanter—told the stockholders their company had a net worth of $8,676,288 when Maguire became president six years ago, and that now it had risen to $20,779,241.

A group of stockholders headed by Arthur G. Logan, Richard B. Hand, and A. Faison Dixon had sought to oust the Maguire management, and as a result Mokan announced recently it was considering dissolution.

The seven directors made no appeal for proxies but requested that these be "withheld from the opposition" until the management "has had an opportunity to submit a plan for the liquidation of Mokan which it is now preparing."

Mokan, a holding company formed in 1928, was in receivership from 1932 until Maguire became president in September, 1937. The concern invests in companies engaged in production, transportation, and distribution of natural gas. Its largest operating subsidiary is the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company, which produces and purchases gas mainly in the Amarillo and Hugoton fields in Texas, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

The seven directors said "Mr. Maguire spent large sums in rehabilitating Mokan, for which he has not been repaid," and that his salary never exceeded $30,000 a year.

DECKER & COHN PLANS TO MERGE ITS SUBSIDIARY

Directors of Alfred Decker & Cohn, Inc., Chicago clothing manufacturer, yesterday called a special meeting of stockholders for Feb. 3 to vote on a proposed merger of the company and its subsidiary, Society Brand corporation. The plan would eliminate the 7 per cent preferred stock, on which there were accumulated unpaid dividends of $79.92 a share as of Oct. 31, 1943, by exchanging for each share $10 in cash and debentures in the amount of $140 bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent, or $7 a year.

The letter said approval of the plan would place the company in position to pay dividends on common stock when earned and would provide a tax savings in that interest paid on the debentures would be deductible from income, unlike dividends on the preferred.

TAX INCENTIVE FOR BUSINESS RISK DEMANDED

Brookings Report Asks New Policy.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9 (AP).—Broad tax incentives for risk capital and deep cuts in corporate tax rates in general were recommended as necessary post-war measures to stimulate economic expansion and provide employment in a study published today by the Brookings institution.

"The proposed change in focus," the report said, "would amount to a reversal of the tax trends of the '30s when taxation was used not merely to raise revenues but also to influence corporate policies and to redistribute income."

Asks Profits Tax Repeal.

The study, prepared by Lewis H. Kimmel and financed by the Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh, Pa., asserted that "an essential first step in the development of the post-war program is the adoption of a clear-cut, unequivocal policy calling for the repeal of the excess profits tax."

Conceding that such a tax may be a war time necessity, it asserted that the levy "tends to throttle new enterprises while favoring relatively riskless business."

"The cornerstone of the post-war federal tax system," it said, "should be a single normal tax, collected on all taxable income—individual and corporate."

Saying rates necessarily would have to be higher than pre-war personal income levies and conceding that purely for revenue purposes it might be necessary to continue some reliance on corporate taxes, the report added:

"Considered solely from the standpoint of the basic post-war objective of maximum release of economic power, continuance of the corporate income tax as a separate tax may well be questioned."

Would Exempt New Firms.

It recommended full tax exemption of new manufacturing enterprises for the first three years and half-rate taxes for the next two, with liberal treatment of operating losses and depreciation allowances on new plant and equipment.

For direct encouragement of risk investment, the study proposed that taxes on dividends from new equity holdings—that is, actual stock shares in the enterprise rather than its bonds—should be cut one-third to one-half below the average effective rate.

Asserts Curb on Plywood Use No Longer Is Required

New York, Jan. 9 (AP).—Lawrence Ottinger, president of the United States Plywood corporation, today said the plywood industry is able to take care of war requirements with only part of its production.

"Thus more commercial plywood should be released as it can be done without interfering with the war," he said.

Civilian Demand Large.

"Should restrictions on hardwood plywood use be relaxed, demand would greatly exceed supply for a considerable period of time," he estimated, however.

Discussing the 1944 outlook for the industry, Ottinger said the war production board would have to watch the situation in Douglas fir plywood closely. He suggested any slack in demand for war purposes should be accompanied by an easing of restrictions on its use.

Plane Demand Falling.

Ottinger said demand for airplane plywood has decreased substantially in recent months, and predicted:

"There will be no great demand for plywood in military aircraft except for certain molded parts and other special parts."

"Technical plywood," he continued, "is in large demand and likely to remain so. There is no way, however, of ascertaining future requirements for P T boats, Victory ship bulkheads, and other marine uses."

ESTIMATES NATIONAL INCOME FOR 1943 AT RECORD 142 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9 (AP).—With an 11 month total of 128 billion 242 million dollars, substantially higher than for any previous full year, Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, estimated today the national income was 142 billion in 1943. The previous high for a full year was 115½ billion in 1942. In 1939 it amounted to 70 billion 900 million.

Income payments [salaries and wages, dividends and interest, rents and royalties, social security benefits, etc.] totaled 12 billion 420 million in November, 16 per cent above November, 1942, but 3 per cent below October, 1943.

WALGREEN SETS RECORD; WARD SALES TUMBLE

December sales of the Walgreen company, drug chain operator, rose 10.9 per cent over the December, 1942, total to a new record of $13,709,489, compared with $12,358,906 a year earlier, the company disclosed yesterday. In contrast, sales of another large Chicago retailer, Montgomery Ward & Co., fell 19.86 per cent below a year ago in December, totaling $69,294,023 against $86,471,566 in December, 1942.

Walgreen sales for all of 1943 amounted to $114,951,356, also a record and 13.5 per cent higher than the 1942 total of $101,250,237. Ward sales for the first 11 months of its fiscal year, which ends with January, totaled $598,458,710, a drop of 5.66 per cent from the $634,358,509 total for the corresponding period a year earlier.

TRY FIRST OF NINE POLICE CAPTAINS ON LAXITY TODAY

Civil Service Will Study Records of Gambling.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

The first of the civil service trials of nine police commanders on gambling laxity charges is slated to start in the city hall this morning with Capt. Walter Healy, formerly in command of the Hyde Park district, as the man whose job is at stake. A request for a continuance will be made, Atty. Michael F. Ryan said, but there is a possibility it will be overruled.

Ryan said his client would refuse to sign a salary waiver customarily required when a city employe asks the civil service board for delay in a scheduled hearing. The lawyer contends there is no provision for policemen being kept under suspension more than 30 days and Healy's suspension was ordered last Dec. 2.

Suspended by Allman.

While no statement on Healy's defense was made by Atty. Ryan, it was understood the police captains facing trial would offer similar pleas that Commissioner James P. Allman ordered their suspension and preferred charges against them to save himself from indictment.

Commanding officers involved besides Capt. Healy are Captains Thomas Harrison, John Cartin, Eugene Barry, Michael Crotty, Thomas Connelly, Louis Klatzco, and Frank Malone, and Lt. William Drury, who had been acting captain at the Town Hall station. All were suspended after Allman had been called before the October and November grand juries.

Principal charges against the commanders are that they failed to keep proper records of their actions on gambling complaints. General conduct unbecoming an officer also is charged, and in some instances specific items of failure to take proper action are listed.

Actually, however, it was admitted the captains were taken off the pay roll and relieved of duty because of the prevalence of gambling in the districts under their supervision.

Three-Man Commission.

The commission, which will sit in judgment on the captains, is composed of Walter L. Gregory, president; James B. Cashin, and William F. Clarke. Gregory is vice president of the Palmer House company, president of the Washington Park Jockey club, a director of the State street council, and a director of International House at the University of Chicago. Cashin is a Negro attorney. Clarke is dean of the De Paul university law school.

Earle Downes, assistant corporation counsel, will present the evidence against the policemen.
